FOR STATE TREASURER,
MATTHEW S. QUAY.

EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

REV. ADIRONDACK MURRAY, a once famous Boston clergyman, is running a restaurant in Montreal.

CANDIDATE DAY will make no speeches. That is right. The thing isn't worth arguing about.

IT JUST seems as if the public of Pennsylvania won't "be d—d," notwithstanding Mr. Vanderbilt's anathemas.

DOWN in Waterbury, Conn., they are selling two quarts of milk for a cent. This shows that the long drought is ended.

FOR minister to Spain, Conrad B. Day, of Philadelphia. Mr. Day will be ready to proceed to his post immediately after the November election.

KEILEY has arrived in New York. He says in substance that he has nothing to take back. The Government has something to take back, however. It is Keiley.

IT is an interesting coincidence that President Cleveland left camp and adjourned to a hotel the very day that the New York World says the party ran out of whisky.

IT is strange that Mormons should be snubbed in London. A Mormon would seem to be quite a decent sort of fellow compared with some of the other folks who live in that town.

ONE thousand tons of paper have been ordered from the Cumberland mills, Portland, Me., for General Grant's book, the largest single order for book paper ever given in this country.

THE Iowa Republicans on Thursday nominated Senator Laribee for Governor, Mr. Hull for Lieutenant Governor and Judge Beck for Supreme Court Judge. Their election is certain.

CHAIRMAN HENSEL: "I voice the unanimous sentiment," and then he put in nomination a man, discovered by himself, after diligent search, and who a week ago was wholly unknown to the "unanimous sentiment."

CONRAD B. DAY, who was nominated by the Democrats as their candidate, rather hopes that his entry into politics will not interfere with his business. We take pleasure in assuring Mr. Day that it will not be serious enough for that.

IN a State with eighty thousand majority against them and in a campaign so hopeless that it was with difficulty a candidate could be secured, the Democratic platform builder can sling ink with reckless prodigality, knowing that he can hurt no one.

FRANK JAMES, the retired bandit, is living quietly near Independence, Mo. He has never read any of the blood-curdling romances descriptive of his own life and says that the incidents related in them are made up from newspaper reports and are greatly exaggerated.

WONDERFUL generosity, isn't it? to give the old weather-worn mourning drapery to the poor people of Washington? Oh, my country, it is a fitting gift, and the poor people can perpetually don the sombre garb of mourning and deeply bewail the cold charity of a heartless world!

THERE was a great cyclone along the sea coast in the Southern States on Wednesday, August 26. It destroyed a million dollars worth of property. But then it happened on the same day that the Pennsylvania Democrats met in State Convention and did not surprise anybody.

Gen. Beaver's Railroad Speech.

Many and various are the opinions expressed in regard to Gen. J. A. Beaver's recent speech on the anti-transfer railroad movement in its relation to the approaching election of Governor of Pennsylvania. That his speech should be considered to have any relation to that event is surprising. We do not think he so contemplated it.

Gen. Beaver is one of the most prominent business men in this place. He has perhaps done more in recent years than any other individual to build up Bellefonte's industries. He is fully aware of the business needs of this borough. He knows what injures and what helps business in the town which he honors as his home. He naturally places the business prosperity of Bellefonte above every other consideration. The business sentiment of this place is undeniably opposed to the transfer. It may be a mistake, but the experience of our citizens seems to prove that the competition afforded by the completion of the Beech Creek, Clearfield and Southwestern R. R. will greatly benefit the business of this place. Gen. Beaver accordingly made a speech, judicious and firm, his words well chosen and their sentiment unmistakable, but nevertheless not containing a sentence which could offend any interest which is disposed to act towards others in an honorable manner. Pennsylvania Railroad interests have no reason to be offended because Gen. Beaver chooses to further by every influence he can exert the prosperity of the community in which he lives. He has no enmity against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. He recognizes it as a corporation which has added to the wealth and importance of the State in which it is located and from which its tributaries reach out in all directions. But when it threatens the prosperity of Bellefonte and Centre county and all the counties in this part of the State he must to that extent oppose it, supported as he believes he is by the law and constitution and by the sentiment of the people.

But whether his actions meet the approval of this great corporation or not, he is doing a great and beneficial work and the people whom he aids will in turn aid him. He is doing what he conceives to be his highest duty. In its relation to his political future he perhaps does not give a thought. Indeed, we have reason to believe, from words we have heard him utter, he has made his political aspirations secondary to his aspirations of usefulness as a citizen. If either must fail his usefulness as a citizen will be the one that will endure.

But we believe the two ambitions lie in the same path. We believe the people of the State will also agree that they are the same. We have heard men who a month ago opposed Gen. Beaver politically affirm that he will certainly be the next Governor of Pennsylvania. This result, these gentlemen now believe to be certain, and nothing, they say, can pevent it. We hope and believe they are correct.

The Poor Man's Blanket.

Now, will the Venango Citizen, in justice to its farmer readers and to itself, publish the fact that the average price of wool in the United States has always been higher under low tariffs than high tariffs? Don't take the Record's word for it, but refer to the last quarterly report of the Bureau of Statistics.—Philadelphia Record.

So the Record, in advocating free wool or a low tariff on wool, wants to increase the price of wool to the manufacturer and indirectly increase the cost of the poor man's blanket. In the above our esteemed Free-trade contemporary has been obliged to admit the truth of protective reasoning.

Under insufficient tariff flocks decline, and after foreign wool obtains a firm foothold in our markets prices go up. The high price, however, does not benefit the American farmer, because he has but few sheep. Under a sufficiently protective tariff flocks increase, the demand for home wool is brisk, the farmer can afford to sell wool cheaper on the same principle that a wholesale store can sell relatively cheaper than at retail, for is not the annual turnover greater? In the meantime, as our esteemed Free-trade contemporary says, wool is cheaper, the manufacturer buys at home, instead of abroad, the poor man's blankets are cheaper and the productive powers of the country are increased.

This is the true protective doctrine, and none the less true because we find it in the columns of the Record.—Phil'a Press.

Day and Quay.

Our friends, the Democrats, have scored remarkable success in the past by nominating and electing unknown men for office, but, almost without exception, these officials have proven lugubrious failures when they have actually entered upon their official duties. As prominent illustrations we point to Cleveland and Pattison. Who would not now rather see Blaine in Cleveland's place and Beaver in Pattison's?

Probably inspired by their previous successes at the polls after selecting men whose only merit was in the fact that no one knew anything about them, Mr. Hensel, the Democratic chairman, struck upon what seemed to him a brilliant scheme, viz., to select a Philadelphia merchant, a man entirely unknown throughout the State.

Now, Mr. Day may be a very nice little man. He may have an excellent capacity for selling dry goods. He has probably palmed off many a piece of 6 cent calico on some unsuspecting country woman for 10 cents. But, we ask in all seriousness, are not the people tired of electing these inefficient, untrained men to office? Will the citizens who have seen so much inefficiency of late in public office aid in electing another similar individual to a place of public trust? Of all places the State treasury most demands trained and experienced management and Mr. Day has not the necessary qualifications. Why spoil a good merchant for the sake of making a poor State Treasurer?

Of Mr. Quay's qualifications there is no question. He is one of the most brilliant geniuses in public life in our State. Although his actions have all been so open and public that they could be seen and criticized by 5,000,000 people no one questions his honesty. This is unusual, and he deserves whatever position of honor his fellow-citizens will give him. Those who desire competent, trustworthy management of State funds will vote for Matthew S. Quay.

CHAIRMAN COOPER has had a rare stroke of good luck. He has caught a campaign lie just as it was crawling out of its hole in his own county and scotched it before it had time to start on its travels. It was a good, able-bodied lie and its dead body will no doubt be stuffed and carried round the State with the other curiosities of the Democratic circus. This Delaware county creature emanates from the brains of one or two professional kickers who have discovered that the only reason why Mr. Quay was not indicted for the famous Riot Bill bribery business was that he was a private citizen and the Wolfe Committee compromised with him for the sake of his evidence! Senator Cooper only had to hit the thing once. The fact that Mr. Quay was Secretary of State at the time referred to and fully amenable to the law had he been in any way implicated in the case gave the thing its quietus and left its authors in the most unpleasant position of having not only started a libel but of having started it in a very ridiculous shape.

BROTHER HENDRICKS has made up his mind not to talk to reporters any more. He probably hasn't anything to say.

Turn the Rascals In.

In Rhode Island a postmastership is given to a Democrat who has been arrested nine times in three months for violating the liquor laws. Turn the rascals in.

In Indiana a place in the mail service is given to a Democrat who, says the Indianapolis Journal, publicly boasts that he has offered bribes to city officials. Turn the rascals in.

In Maryland an appointment to the Treasury Department is given to a Democrat whose reputation, says the Civil Service Reform Association of that State, is not that of a man of integrity and honor. Turn the rascals in.

In Iowa another postmastership is given to a Democrat who was jailed for breaking the pension laws. Turn the rascals in.

In Colorado an agencyship of the National Labor Bureau is given to a Democrat who has been in the Penitentiary for horse-stealing. Turn the rascals in.

In Pennsylvania a clerkship in the United States Mint is given to a Democrat who sent a bogus letter to Cincinnati last fall purporting to come from Neal Dow, and by him denounced as a forgery, designed to drive the German vote away from the Republican candidate. Turn the rascals in.

In Vermont a Collectorship is given to a Democrat who was an active member of the committee that endeavored to compass the defeat of General Garfield by the infamous Morey letter. Turn the rascals in.

In Mississippi another postmastership is given to a Democrat who has been indicted and convicted for breaking the Civil Rights law. Turn the rascals in.

In New York a Cabinet office is given to a Democrat who notoriously is one of the most offensive partisans and thorough-going machine bosses in the country. Turn the rascals in.—New York Tribune.

THE attempt to make capital for the Democratic Administration by sending forth the insinuation that the late U. S. Pension Agent, Colonel Norris, is a technical defaulter is a miserably thin piece of business. Colonel Norris was hustled out of office with the same rude disregard of official amenities that marked General Hartranft's removal from the Custom House. For more than a week after his successor's appointment had been announced in the newspapers he received no notice of the fact. When it did come, Colonel Norris turned the office over to General Davis and left town for the summer, leaving his Chief Clerk to make up the accounts, which is a somewhat tedious piece of work. The $176.177 which the Treasury Department gives out as being "involved" is lying safely in the U. S. Treasury and could not possibly be touched by the ex-Pension Agent. The whole thing looks like a smart little trick to make political capital at the expense of an honest Republican official.

IT is curious to note the divergence of opinion expressed by exchanges respecting the fight which occurred on Saturday evening last in Cincinnati between Dominick McCaffrey and John Sullivan. So respectable and careful an authority as the Philadelphia Record believes that its tendency will be to elevate such contests to the plane of healthful and beneficial exhibitions of physical endurance. The Pittsburg Commercial Gazette, a paper usually not a whit less careful in its comments, denominates it a "snide" affair, a disgrace to Cincinnati. The REPUBLICAN has refrained from referring to it in any way and we believe that our readers are just as well off without reading the details of it.

EX-UNITED STATES SENATOR COWAN, of Greensburg, died at his home in that place on Saturday morning.

THE Republican Legislature of 1881 passed what is know as the Stewart anti-discrimination bill. Its author was the well-known Independent leader, John Stewart of Franklin county. It affords a legal remedy against any unjust or unreasonable discrimination by the railroads. It was supported by all of the Republican members, and if enforced there would be little room for the play of political demagoguery. Besides this Act, the constitution stops the absorption of competing railroad and telegraph lines. The deal of the South Penn was publicaly known a month before the meeting of the Democratic State Convention, and yet Attorney General Cassidy did not move in the matter until the Convention was assembling and the deal had been completed, with all articles signed and attested. Instead of endorsement, does not the Pattison administration deserve reproof for thus trifling with its duty, if it had a duty to perform?

THE great industrial and business interests of the country may form the issue next year when the Democratic administration has had an opportunity to show its hand. For the present there is abundant reason to condemn the new administration for its unfit appointments to office, its broken pledges of devotion to Civil Service Reform, its ungenerous treatment of gallant Union veterans. Every vote for Mr. Quay means a blow at these. The people are again learning that the Democratic party cannot be trusted. A staunch Republican like Mr. Quay is thousand times preferable to any Democrat.

ONE can form some idea of the growth of the great West by noting the phœnix-like appearance of populated cities where, only a few years ago, there was no sign of advancement. Take Minneapolis, Minnesota, as an illustration. In 1850 its site was a vast wilderness; in 1860 it had a population of 5,809, in 1870 13,066, and in 1880, 46,887. A census was taken and reported a few days ago making the metropolis contain no less than 129,200 inhabitants. It is such phenomenal growths, in almost every portion of America, that startle even the native born who has been accustomed to witness our advancement.

THIS has been the best season for summer resorts in years, which statement appears strange in view of prolonged business depression; but the fact is, many people have money over from ante-depression days, and plenty of time this year to lay off and enjoy themselves.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

This proves that lack of confidence not lack of money causes the business depression. Lack of confidence is caused by distrust in the Democratic administration.

WHILE we are as much opposed as anybody to the proposed merger of the B. C., C. & S. W. R. R. with the Pennsylvania, we must protest against the action of the Democrats in making it a political issue. But then nothing else can be expected of the blundering Democrats. They ruin every good movement by endeavoring to make political capital of it, and if this measure falls through, they will be responsible for its failure.

THE recent great rain storm in Canton, China, if certain detailed accounts which have reached Washington are true, must have been one of the most fearful of which we have any record. It is claimed that 10,000 people lost their lives and a far greater number were left in a starving condition. It has caused great distress in that part of China and the cost of provisions has been greatly enhanced.

BY granting Riel a new trial the Government of Manitoba has probably taken the first step toward extricating itself from an awkward and dangerous predicament. A verdict that will enable the authorities to put Riel into prison, where he can be watched, will go a long way in settling the troubles in the Northwest, while hanging would be almost as harmful as setting him scot free.

Almost $5,000,000 is on deposit in a San Francisco bank by the Attorney General of California, subject to his personal draft, and yet his bond is only $10,000. This sum was paid to him in settlement of Pacific Railroad taxes, and a complication of authority delays its transfer to the State treasury.

A Michigan girl outbid her companions in a craze for autographic albums by having about a hundred letters from the same number of men bound in a volume for her parlor table. As the missives represented her extensive and unusually sentimental correspondence since she had arrived at the age of chriography, the collection proved very interesting to callers.

A Wisconsin woman accuses her husband of trying to persuade her to commit suicide in a manner that would enable him to collect for their children the amount of an insurance policy on her life. He argued the propriety of the project, since she was feeble and likely to require much doctoring during the rest of her natural life, thus using up money needlessly, whereas by dying at once she could leave the family in good circumstances.

Poetry.

A FEW SEASONABLE RHYMES.

The Fat Man Rejoices.

The months roll on, the torrid heat
Of summer's almost over;
The nights are growing cool again,
The fat man feels in clover.

Put 'em Away.

Though Sol still glows, his tropic strength,
No longer he can muster;
We'll soon put by the palm-leaf fan,
Likewise the linen duster.

He Knocks the Dust out of the Bible Again.

The parson, back to work, refreshed,
Now stirring sermons preaches,
The girls are coming home again
In bevies from the beaches.

Misspent and Well-spent Time.

Some sighing over precious time
They've wasted in flirtations,
And some, who've hooked their fish to make
Their wedding preparations.

They've Got Home.

Now people who've been "living back,"
Avoiding observation,
Throw open wide their blinds in front,
Which means home from vacation.

No More High Life Below Stairs.

From beach and mountain, families
Are coming home in dozens,
And from the kitchen, servant maids
Are clearing out their cousins,

Kissed by Old Sol.

The pretty girls who went away
With cheeks as red as cherries,
We notice coming back again
With faces brown as berries,

A Premature Explosion.

Now in the fields from dawn to dark,
The ardent sportsman lingers,
With the result: An empty bag,
A missing pair of fingers.

The Mistake She Made.

The damsel who's been bathing at the beaches,
at the beaches,
And bathing, too, in very scanty clothes
scanty clothes,
Has found the wisdom that experience
teaches, 'perience teaches,
Since she couldn't find a lover who'd propose, who'd propose,
And she murmurs, while her tears are fast descending, fast descending,
And impatiently she stamps her little foot,
little foot,
That her summer might have had a different
ending, different ending,
If she'd but worn a padded bathing suit,
bathing suit.

THE COUNTRY JOURNALIST.

The following, from the pen of Eugene Field, of the Chicago Daily News, goes to show that the writer has experienced some of the adversities of Country Journalism.

"The melancholy days have come,"
He writes in philosophic mood,
And then he tells us, further on,
Subscriptions may be paid in wood.
Oh, editors of rural sheets,
Why pine and villify your luck,
When you exchange you brains for beets
And every kind of truck?
You groan about the nation's pride,
And nation's honor going to grass,
And yet you swap your mental toil
For hickory sticks and garden sass.
Brace up, old brethren of the pen,
And you may mock misfortune's laugh,
You'll quote no rueful poems when
You make your readers pay you cash!

Our Story Teller.

May's Folly.

It was May Brinley's wedding day, and she stood fully dressed before her mirror, taking one last look, with a little pardonable vanity, at the pretty figure reflected there.

In another hour she should be Mrs. John Hargrave. How hard it was to realize!

Around her clustered a bevy of girls, each one anxious to put some finishing touch to the beautiful toilet.

"I quite envy you, May," said one; "and I just got a peep of Jack. He looks, oh, so awfully handsome, and is waiting impatiently to see you one minute before you go to the church."

"Have you made up your mind to say 'obey?'" mischievously inquired another. "You know you always used to say you never would."

"Oh, yes, I shall says it," answered the bride-elect, "because I should not want a scene at the altar. But it's all nonsense; Jack doesn't expect me to obey him. He knows I have had my own way all my life, and I am sure he will always give it to me. He says he loves to spoil me."

"Take care, May, darling, that you do not begin life with a fatal error," said one who had not yet spoken.

Her words were interrupted by a quick, impatient rap at the door.

"It's Jack!" exclaimed May. "Open the door girls, and then be off with you."

"I thought they would never let me in," said the tall, handsome fellow who advanced into the room. "My own darling! How beautiful you are!"

He came toward her with outstretched arms.

"Don't" she said a little petulantly, receding as she spoke. "This is not the time for bear-hugs."

The handsome face clouded a little.

"I won't do the finery any harm," he answered, and gently encircling her with his arm he drew her to him, uplifting the crimson lips on which he pressed a long, loving kiss. "God grant I may ever make you as happy, darling, as you have made me to-day!" he whispered.

But just then there was a call for the bride. The carriages were in waiting. It was quite time they should be at the church.

How solemnly Jack made all the responses, thought May. For her part she repeated them after the minister scarcely conscious of the import of the words, but quite conscious of the sea of faces through which she must pass; quite conscious that her marriage was the event of the season, her toilet such as to bar criticism, and her husband young and rich, and handsome enough to make her the envy of half the women present.

But way down in the depths of the little worldly heart was a well of true love for Jack. If she had to give up all this outside show she would have been quite content to have gone off all alone with him, and proved how true a wife she could be; but there was no occasion for this, and I don't think even May herself knew just how wholly she loved him. She was a spoiled, petted child, and that any solemn duties were entailed in the estate upon which she was just entering she did not pause to think.

For four weeks she and Jack traveled; then they came home to their own beautiful home—her father's wedding gift to her. Here a round of festivities awaited them, so that the young couple for three months had no single evening to themselves.

"I am tired, May. Let us stay at home to-night, darling," said Jack one evening after dinner as May was about to leave him to make her toilet for some party.

"Absurd, Jack! You're not growing old already, surely! Besides, I promised Mrs. Armstrong we would come and I cannot disappoint her."

"I don't like Mrs. Armstrong, May I wish you were not so intimate with her; and really my head aches to-night. Stay at home, like a good little girl."

For a moment May wavered. She looked within the library, which seemed so warm and inviting. She could fancy Jack stretched on the sofa, while she sat beside him, bathing his brows with some fragrant cologne, and thought what a nice, cozy evening they might have. Then she remembered something Mrs. Armstrong had said about spoiling men, and how easy it was to begin, and how selfish they grew.

It was well enough for Jack to spoil her. That was to be expected; but as to spoiling him—no, indeed! So she ran on up the stairs, calling back over her shoulder as she went:

"Come, Jack; we've no time to lose. And as to that horrid prejudice of yours, do try and get over it."

There came a temptation to the man—a temptation to carry out his own manly will; but a softer, tenderer feeling swept over him as a mental vision of the pretty, laughing face swept before him; and half an hour later he stood in full dress, waiting the advent of the beautiful girl, who all unconscious to them both was steering her frail vessel on to the quicksands of married misery.

* * * * * *

A year passed, and Mr. and Mrs. Hargrave were still in the gay vortex of fashionable life, but to the man's spirit it had grown unuterably wearisome.

"I married for a home, May," he said, one day, in gentle explanation; "but what do I see of my home?"

"Quite enough to satisfy a reasonable man. Why, I shouldn't want to be alone with you all the time, Jack! Think how awfully tired we should get of each other!"

The thoughtless words stabbed like a knife, but he made them no reply. Only that evening, for the first time, Mrs. Hargrave went to some gay assemblage alone. Her husband had refused to accompany her.

"I am tired," said he. "But do not let me detain you. Mrs. Armstrong is seen constantly without her husband."

"Because he is a bear," answered May, pouting.

Nevertheless she went, and after that it was no uncommon thing for Jack to spend his evenings with his books and thoughts, while his beautiful wife went out alone.

"May, I wish you to give Mrs. Armstrong up," he said to her one evening as they sat at dinner.

"Nonsense, Jack! I cannot do it, if I wished it ever so much."

"But you must do it. I will not have you go to that woman's house again."

"But, Jack, I have already accepted an invitation to a dinner-party there for Thursday evening."

"Then write and decline. I do not ask you this without cause, little girl; but things have recently come to my hearing regarding this lady, and I do not wish my wife's name coupled with hers."

May answered nothing more, but in her own heart her decision was unaltered. Begin to yield to a man's whims, and where should she end? Of course she should go. She had been married more than a year now and so far had always had her own sweet will and way.

This time the latter was unexpectedly made easy to her, for as Jack kissed her good-bye on Thursday morning he said to her:

"I shan't be home to dinner to-night, May. You had better dine at mother's. By the way, this was Mrs. Armstrong's night. You have sent that regret?"

The first fear she had ever felt of Jack crept into her heart at a new, stern look she saw in his eyes, and it drew her first falsehood to him from her lips.

"Yes," she answered.

He stooped and kissed her more tenderly.

"I'll make it up to you yet, darling. Believe me, I did not ask it without good cause."

She stood quite still after he had left her. She was half tempted yet to obey him; but—pshaw! what nonsense it was!

So, at seven o'clock, the coupe stood at her door, and in a bewitching dinner dress she was driven to the house her husband had forbidden her to enter.

But the dinner dragged—not but that Mrs. Armstrong's chef had done himself infinite credit, or that her guests failed in their part. The trouble lay only with Mrs. Hargrave's self. In vain she strove to rally; compliments palled on her; the lights tired her. One thought weighed on heart and brain—suppose Jack should be seriously displeased? Well, what if he were. Mrs. Armstrong had told her how she had managed her husband's first displeasure.

"Never yield!" she advised. "Never show that you're sorry, and you'll soon learn not to feel sorry."

So, when at ten o'clock she bade her hostess good-night, she determined not to show that she felt any regret.

A light in the library told her that her husband was at home. She hesitated an instant at the door then went boldly in.

Jack stood with his back to the fire, his eyes fixed upon her, but not her Jack. The sternness had gone from his eyes, but no smile was on his lips. Over all his face was an expression of withering contempt.

"You have enjoyed your evening madam?" he said; "you had for it the relish of your falsehood this morning."

Oh, how wrong she had been! She was tempted to crawl up to him, and creep into his arms and beg him to forgive her, but she remembered Mrs. Armstrong's advice.

"Yes," she said, "I had a charming evening; but I am quite sleepy now. Good-night! I am going to bed."

She turned to leave the room, but in one stride he was beside her and held her arm in a grip of steel.

"Coward, you hurt me!" she said, in sudden anger.

He dropped her arm then as though she had stung him.

"You meant that word—you have ceased to love me? Why did you disobey me, May?"

"Because I do not propose to be a slave to your caprice—because I have had my way all my life, and I intend to have it."

"And I say you shall not have it! Choose between Mrs. Armstrong and me—between your unworthy friend and husband—between your own will and our future happiness—on this instant, choose!"

"I have made my choice; I abide by it. When you are more reasonable, I will listen further. Now, good-night!"

He made no answer. She lingered a moment at the head of the stairs hoping he would speak again, but all was silent.

Oh, how unhappy she was as she shut and barred her door! Strange as it may seem she had never loved her husband so well in her life. His pale, handsome face haunted her.

"How hateful I was!" she said to herself. "As if I would not give up fifty Mrs. Armstrongs for one Jack. I will give her up, too, but I'll do it in my own way."

Once she unlocked the door to go down. But no—it would undo all that her firmness had accomplished; so the night passed, to her a sleepless one.

In the early morning a servant brought her a note. It was from her husband, and ran thus:

"At nine o'clock I sail for Europe, to be absent three months. During that time my lawyer will consult you in regard to our separation, and make it as easy for you as possible. I have known for a long time that our tastes were diametrically opposed, that all my sweet hopes of home were wrecked, but not that you could defy and outrage the love which I so freely gave you. Do not think me harsh in leaving you without a good-bye, but I thought it would be less painful to us both."

With tear-blinded eyes she glanced up at the clock. It was just eight. She had one hour in which to act. It was but the work of ten minutes to order the carriage, make a hasty toilet, swallow a cup of coffee and then issue her commands to the coachman to drive at any speed but reach the pier before the clock struck nine. One hour to undo what might be a life's fatal work.

But time waits for no man. It was ten minutes past the hour when the pier was reached, and already far out in the bay stood the gallant ship.

With a low cry of agony May realized the whole; then the strain relaxed and the fair young head fell back upon its silken cushions in a dead faint.

"A lady fainted!" was the cry which reached a gentleman giving some directions about the baggage which he had countermanded being upon the vessel which had just set sail.

He turned quickly. There stood his own horses, his own carriage, and within it the lovely face of his unconscious wife.

It was the work of an instant to spring beside her and lift it on his breast, trying to revive her with his passionate kisses. At last the beautiful eyes opened with wild, incredulous recognition.

"Oh, I am dreaming!" she murmured. "Jack, Jack! don't leave me!"

"No, darling—no! At the last moment my heart relented. I thought perhaps I had misjudged you, or that I had been to severe, and I ordered my baggage taken off the steamer and let it sail without me. My wife, I thought you did not love me—that you had chosen the world; because my darling, no true woman finds it hard to yield to the man whom she can respect and love; and surely May, you did not find me a tyrant."

But she can only sob out her plea for forgiveness—a plea all too easy to grant; and even tears are sweet when kissed away by love's lips.

But May never forgets her lesson. Each year home grows sweeter, more precious, and some of the jostling, outside world is shut away; but May misses nothing. She has found her world within Jack's heart, and knows that he is well content that she should nestle there.

Coffins in Gay Colors.

While riding with a friend through a town in Lincoln County, not long ago, we came upon a small shop curiously decorated with waves of paint of different colors. The front looked as though the occupant of the shop, whenever he wished to test a newly mixed color, dipped his brush into it and then wiped the brush on the outside of the building. In this way or some other he had produced a rude rainbow, the hues dissolving into each other where one brushful of paint had encroached upon the margin of its predecessor.

"That is an undertaker's shop," said my friend, "and those are the colors in which he paints his coffins. He splashes these samples on the outside of the building in order that he may see how they look himself, and also the friends of the departed may pick out the color they want."

"What?"

"Yes. Nearly all the people in this little town who have died during the past ten years have been buried in colored coffins. Light blue is the favorite tint here for children and orange the prevailing shade for old people. You see, this is one of the most retired villages in the state, and he is the only undertaker anywhere near here. The people have got used to his notions, and now they rather like the painted coffins. One old fellow got disgusted and took a solemn oath that this undertaker should never make a coffin for him. So he drove to Augusta while he was yet in this land of the living and had himself measured for a coffin. The coffin was made and he carried it home. He tried his best to induce his wife to have her coffin made, too. She said it was ridiculous—the idea of having your coffin made before you were dead!—and plumply refused to be measured. This made the old man so mad that he threatened to sue for a divorce, and he and the lady had many a jar after that, although they had previously lived in peace and content. The old man put his coffin in the barn and used it to keep his yellow eyed beans in. In the course of time he died and was prepared for the grave. The yellow-eyed beans were turned out of the coffin and an endeavor was made to put the old gentleman into it. They found that his body after all was so large that it could not be squeezed into the coffin. They had to patronize their undertaker in spite of the enmity existing between him and the late lamented. They tried to get him to swap one of his coffins for the old gentleman's Augusta purchase, but this the undertaker positively refused to do and insisted on being paid cash down for the coffin."

He Knew the Ropes.

From the San Franciscan.

A young man of affable manners presented himself at the box-office of a San Jose theatre and requested a press pass. "You claim to be a journalist, do you?" glancing suspiciously at the good clothes and innocent look of the applicant.

"Yes, sir, I do; I'm on the Petaluma Pearine."

"Hum; what's your department?" growled the showman. "I was a newspaper man myself once."

"I do the 'Answers to Correspondents,'" asserted the youth.

"Do, eh? Lemme see; what was the fastest mile ever skated for money in this country? Come now."

"That question is always signed 'Amateur,' said the young man promptly; "and the answer is 'Died in Brazil, 1441.'"

"Correct," said the manager. "In what year was Cleopatra hung?"

"Trim with three-ply ruching and bake before a quick fire."

"Did Oliver Cromwell have a pink wart on his chin?"

"B takes the trick of course."

"Please tell us the exact size of George Washington's shoe.

"See Patent Office report for May."

"How do you make marble out of ink stains?"

"1. Inquire at any hardware store. 2. Patagonia was discovered by Benjamin Franklin, 1293."

"That settles it," said the manager, "I see you've got 'em all by heart. Here's a private box. Pass right in."

It Paralyzed Him.

"I want to give you a pointer," said a dining car waiter to a fresh reporter yesterday afternoon, at the Pennsylvania Railroad depot. "There is a man inside this car that does nothing but travel around in sleeping cars. Why he's been living that way for five years."

The reporter scented a good news item. Visions of the son of wealthy parents, tired of society and riding around in luxurious sleepers, flashed before the reporter's gaze. Here was a chance for a good story.

"Yes," said the gentleman, when questioned, "I've traveled almost constantly for the past fine years."

"What do you do it for?" asked the reporter" anxious for the envied experience.

"For $90 a month. I am a conductor, and have traveled on this road since November, 1879."

That was all. A baggage man was called to carry the reporter's remains away, and word was telephoned to the Coroner to hold an inquest.

A Very Sharp Witness.

Sometimes a lawyer meets his match on the witness stand. Not long since there was a breach of promise case in an Ohio town. The usual bully-ragging lawyer was there, but an unusual witness in the person of a country schoolmarm, met him.

"Ah, miss," said the lawyer, when she had taken the oath, "will you state your name?"

"Elizabeth Martin," she responded, quietly.

"Your occupation?"

"Teaching school."

"How old are you?" he next inquired, with a sidelong smile at the crowd.

"Old enough to know that it is none of your business," she answered as gentle as the ring dove cooes

"Objection sustained," remarked the court.

The lawyer's face fell, but he braced up and went on, without a smile.

"Do you know the nature of an oath," he asked spitefully.

"Oh, yes. I heard you damn the court yesterday on the street for ruling against you, and I knew you were not saying your prayers."

The court looked at the lawyer, the lawyer looked at the ceiling, and the witness looked at ease.

"Confine your answer to the case, if you please," said the lawyer. "Now, will you tell the court if you know the plaintiff?"

"Yes, sir, I know her."

"What do know of her?"

"More good than I do of a lawyer, sir."

"That's not what I want to know."

"I presume not, sir," continued the witness softly.

"I presume not, sir," continued the witness, softly,

"I want to know," shouted the exasperated questioner, bringing his fist down on the table, "if you know anything about the case before the court."

"More than you do possibly."

"Well, tell it to the court and I have done with it."

"Thanks. I know, your Honor, that Joseph Hill, the defendant, asked Mary Jackson the plaintiff, if she would be his wife. It was done in my presence"

"Indeed! Isn't that rather an unusual way of popping the question?"

"I don't know, sir. I have no experience. I happened to be present, because I came into the room unexpectedly and found the plaintiff sitting in the defendant's lap, and he, to show me that he had a right to save the furniture in that way, asked her again to be his wife, as he had done a week earlier."

"By the way, Miss Martin, how much does the plaintiff weigh?"

"One hundred and forty pounds, sir."

"How do you know so exactly?"

"By the weight, of course," she smiled and the lawyer went on another track.

"Did you think the defendant was telling the truth?"

"Oh, yes; you know he is not a lawyer."

"The witness will confine herself to the facts," interrupted the court.

"Very well, Your Honor. I shall pay more attention to the statements of the attorney."

"That will do," said the provoked lawyer. "The witness may stand down."

"May it please the court," she replied, "the witness would like to sit down."

"The sheriff will please provide the witness with a chair," said the court. "She seems to have sat down on everything else in the court-room, and the court sees no reason why a chair should be exempt."

The witness smiled placidly and took the chair to await another call to the stand.

A Turnip Story.

A farmer was once told that his turnip field had been robbed, and that the robbery had been committed by a poor, inoffensive man, by the name of Palmer, who many of the people in the village said had taken away a wagon-load of turnips.

Farmer Brown, much exasperated by the loss of his turnips, determined to prosecute poor Palmer with all the severity of the law. With this intention he went to Mollie Sanders, the washerwoman, who had been busy in spreading the report, to know the whole truth; but Mollie denied ever having said anything about a wagon load of turnips. It was but a cart-load that Palmer had taken, and Dame Hodson, the huckster, had told her so over and over again.

The farmer, hearing this, went to Dame Hodson, who said that Molly Sanders was always making things out worse than they really were, that Palmer had taken only a wheelbarrow load of turnips, and that she had her account from Jenkins, the tailor.

Away went the farmer to Jenkins, the tailor, who stoutly denied the account altogether; he had only told Dame Hodson that Palmer had pulled up several turnips, but how many he could not tell, for that he did not see himself, but was told it by Tom Slack, the plow man.

Wondering where this would end, Farmer Brown next questioned Tom Slack, who, in his turn, declared he had never said a word about seeing Palmer pull up several turnips; he only said that he had heard say that Palmer had pulled up a turnip, and that Barnes, the barber, was the person who had told him about it.

The farmer, almost out of patience at this account, hurried on to Barnes, the barber, who wondered much that people should find pleasure in spreading idle tales which have no truth! He assured the farmer all he had said about the matter, while he took off the beard of, Tom Slack, was that, for all he knew, Palmer was as likely a man to pull up a turnip as any of his neighbors.

Real Cowboys.

"I have seen a good many daring deeds performed and coarse jokes perpetrated by cowboys," said the agent. "One morning a traveling man arrived at the depot by stage. He had a small sample case and satchel. He was below medium height and rather slight, but was very neatly dressed and wore a silk hat. He was traveling for a New York jewelry house. He was about an hour early for the train east, and he opened his grip on the platform, took out a brush and dusted his clothing and shoes. He then took out an old newspaper, leaned up against the side of the depot with one foot projected in front of the other, and began reading.

"Meanwhile three cowboys had sauntered up to the depot. They all eyed him closely and watched his operations. When he began reading they huddled together and talked in an undertone. Presently one of them—a big six-footer—left the group and began to saunter carelessly about the platform with his head in the air, inspecting the posters on the building and the cornice. When he got around where the traveling man stood, he lifted his big brogan and planted it firmly on the jewelry man's foot. No apology was made. The traveling man merely looked up, drew his foot back a moment, then placed it back where it was. The cowboy passed back to the other two. They all chuckled and joined in the conversation.

"Soon the cowboy started out again on a similar round, gaping at the roof. When he reached the traveling man he tried to bring down his coarse boot on the extended foot. The traveling man jerked his foot back suddenly, and the brogan came down with a thump on the platform. Another conference and chuckling followed. Finally the cowboy set out on the third round. Just as he was about to raise his foot to plant it on that of the traveling man, the latter looked up quickly and said:

"See here, there is my foot, and its going to stay there. You step on it if you want to; but I want to tell you that before you can get off of it I will kill you."

"Such a volley staggered the cowboy. He looked at the foot and then at the small possessor, and finally moved off without stepping on it. Another consultation followed.

"The traveling man calmly read his paper a few minutes, and then took from his satchel three apples. He looked at them a moment and suddenly threw them a few feet into the air, and fired three shots, splitting each apple into a dozen pieces before they reached the ground. He replaced the cartridges in the empty chambers of the revolver, and returned it to his pocket.

The cowboys witnessed the act without saying a word, and soon, completely cowed, turned and left the depot. The traveling man told me after they left the depot that he would have killed the three of them had the fellow stepped on his foot again, and I think he would, as he was quick as lightning. He then showed me a medal he carried, which he won as being the most rapid shot in New York."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The morphine habit, it is said, will cause the hair to drop off. Ladies who are addicted to this habit should take the precaution to pin their hair on securely before starting out for a promenade. A few extra hairpins will defy the opium habit.

President Cleveland's Secretary of the Interior on taking his portfolio made a great fuss about selling the Government horses and carriages that had been used by the Secretary, but it turns out that the whole thing was buncombe, as Mr. Lamar not only rides with horses kept at the Government expense, but his so-called messenger, a paid officer of the Government, is his driver. Nothing can be more contemptible than a petty steal of this kind, because it is a steal, for Congress appropriates the funds used for other purposes, and because they are not used for those purposes does not warrant using them for anything else. It is claimed that the horses and wagons really save the time of the Secretary for public purposes, but then why is Congress not honestly asked to furnish the conveyance? That would be the honest way of doing it.

BUT A BRIEF BREATHING SPELL.

Is the backbone of Summer now broken,
Or is scorching old Sol sick abed?
Is this Autumn like weather a token
That the dog-days have finally fled?

Must we wonder no more where the gull stirs,
Where the sea-serpent recklessly roves?
Shall we seek out our flannels and ulsters,
And excavate ear-muffs and gloves?

Must we monkey with stovepipes aggressive,
And inhale a fall of soot while we swear?
Are we rid of coloric excessive,
Or has Summer gone "off on a tear?"

How we'd sing if this weather forever,
Like our freckles and wrinkles would last?
It would be our most earnest endeavor
To capture and anchor it fast.

ON THE WRONG TACK.

With her thumb on a black-headed tack,
With a hammer upraised in her hand,
Taking aim to obtain a good whack,
A woman sits silent and bland;
A woman sits smiling and bland,
Sits on the half-carpeted floor,
Where tacks lie like shells on the strand,
Unnumbered and thirsty for gore.

With a yell that might make negroes pale,
With a leap which a goat can't surpass,
With a mangled and bleeding thumb-nail
She falls in a chair, a limp mass;
She falls in a chair, a limp mass,
And groans till the pain flees away—
A beautiful emblem, alas!
Of energy sadly astray.

The "R. H. B." Anniversary.

The fourth anniversary of the "R. H. B." occurred on Friday evening at the home of Mr. A. S. Valentine. The young gentleman who compose the membership of this club are Harry Keller, chief; George L. Jackson, secretary; Jos. J. Rhoads, Will H. Keller, Will S. Furst, Chas. E. Rhone, J. H. Sommerville, A. S. Valentine, Edw. K. Rhoads, R. H. Sommerville, E. A. Valentine, Gilbert A. Beaver, Thos. J. Orbison, A. O. Sommerville. Quite a number of young ladies were present, among whom we noticed Misses Mary, Carrie, Julia and Sallie Valentine, Miss Seiler, Miss Anna Bright, Misses Mary and Bessie Meek, Misses Mary and Lizzie Blanchard, Miss Mary Hoy, Miss Thomazine Potter, Miss Mary Morris, Miss Emily Harris, Miss Anna Mann, Miss Mary Orbison, Miss Minnie Wilkinson and Miss Anna Orvis.

Mrs. Valentine presided in the capacity of hostess and did the honors of the occasion in her usual graceful and charming manner. The time was spent in dancing and other pleasures, the Milesburg Orchestra furnishing excellent music. The grounds surrounding the residence were beautifully illuminated with Chinese lanterns and afforded a delightful promenade between dances.

The refreshments included all the delicacies of an exceedingly bountiful season and the most modern and tempting productions of the cuisine. The occasion was one of unalloyed enjoyment. When the hour of separation arrived all expressed the wish that the "R. H. B.," (Right Honorable Buffers, or whatever else it may mean) may continue to exist during the life of this generation.

The Fears of the Czar.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—An eye witness of the whole pageant at Kremsier asserts that, despite the efforts to make it appear that no dread of personal danger to the Czar was entertained, Alexander was really alert and uneasy, and he added to the secret precautions arranged for his safety more than one device of his own. He was pale and careworn during his entire stay, and he himself suggested several precautions to the Austrian authorities. A few unimportant arrests were made during his stay.

The Czar owns a large mastiff possessed of uncommon strength and intelligence. The mastiff has been carefully trained as a bodyguard, and, as is well known in St Petersburg and Moscow, watches beside his master's couch every night. This dog accompanied the Czar to and from Kremsier.

"Who is the most richly-dressed woman in this hotel?" I asked in a certain big house.

"The wife of So-and-so, the gambler," was the reply.

"Who is the most beautiful?"

"Miss Such-or-such, the actress who eloped with What-you-call-him last winter."

"Who keeps the fastest horse?"

"T'other fellow, the pool-seller."

Now those are the points that, embodied in society reports, would make the department worth reading

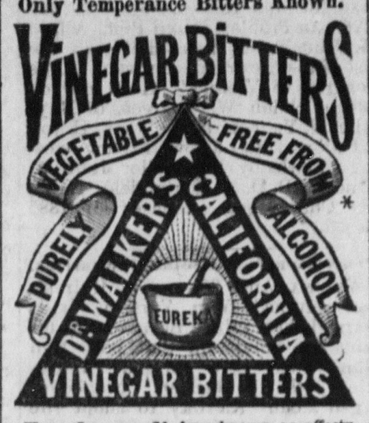
Only Temperance Bitters Known.



No other medicine known so effectually purges the blood of deep-seated diseases.

Millions bear testimony to its wonderful curative effects.

It is a purely Vegetable Preparation, made from the native herbs and roots of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol.

It removes the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health.

It is the great Blood Purifier and Life-giving Principle; a Gentle Purgative and Tonic; a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the power of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to.

The Alterative, Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Anti-Bilious, Solvent, Diuretic and Tonic properties of VINEGAR BITTERS exceed those of any other medicine in the world.

No person can take the BITTERS according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Bilious, Remittent, Intermittent and Malarial Fevers, are prevalent throughout the United States, particularly in the valleys of our great rivers and their vast tributaries during the Summer and Autumn, especially during seasons of unusual heat and dryness.

These Fevers are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these organs, is absolutely necessary.

There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as it will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus forearmed.

It Invigorates the Stomach and stimulates the torpid Liver and Bowels, cleansing the blood of all impurities, imparting life and vigor to the frame, and carrying off without the aid of Calomel, or other minerals, all poisonous matter from the system.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Pneumonia, Dizziness, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are at once relieved by VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, the Bitters have no equal. In these, as in all constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS has shown its great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to Paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take occasional doses of VINEGAR BITTERS.

Skin Diseases, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Swellings, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations, Humors and diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of the Bitters.

Pin, Tape and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like VINEGAR BITTERS.

Measles, Scarlet Fever, Mumps, Whooping Cough, and all children's diseases may be made less severe by keeping the bowels open with mild doses of the Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, this Bitters has no equal.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood when its impurities burst through the skin in Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when, and the health of the system will follow.

In conclusion: Give the Bitters a trial. It will speak for itself. One bottle is a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Around each bottle are full directions printed in different languages.

AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION proposed to the citizens of this Commonwealth for their approval or rejection by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Published by order of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in pursuance to the last section of Article XVIII of the Constitution.

Joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, that the following is proposed as an amendment of to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof.

AMENDMENT.

That section five of article five of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which reads as follows: "Whenever a county shall contain forty thousand inhabitans it shall constitute a separate judicial district, and shall elect one judge learned in the law; and the General Assembly shall provide for additional judges, as the business of the said district may require. Counties containing a population less than is sufficient to constitute separate districts shall be formed into convenient single districts, or, if necessary, may be attached to contiguous districts, as the General Assembly may provide. The office of associate judge, not learned in the law, is abolished in counties forming separate districts; but the several associate judges in office when this constitution shall be adopted shall serve for their unexpired terms," be and the same is hereby amended, so as to read as follows: Whenever a county shall contain sixty thousand inhabitants it may constitute a separate judicial district, and may elect one judge learned in the law; and the General Assembly shall provide for additional judges, as the business of said district may require. Counties not forming separate districts shall be formed into convenient single districts, as the General Assembly may provide. The office of associate judge, not learned in the law, is abolished in counties forming separate districts and having more than one law judge; every other county shall elect two associate judges, who shall not be required to be learned in the law; but the several associate judges in office, when this amendment shall be adopted, shall serve for their unexpired term.

Labor Troubles.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—All the miners in Shawnee came out to-day for the advance in the price of mining from forty to fifty cents. The operators are willing to give the price provided a similar advance is made at Straitsville. The miners at New Straitsville decided in a mass meeting to-night to stop work to-morrow morning until their demand for fifty cents per ton for mining is complied with. The present price paid is forty cents. The operators say they will not grant an advance.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 1.—The miners in the Massilon district of the Tuscarawas Valley to-day by a majority of 270 decided to continue the strike against a reduction of fifteen cents per ton.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 1.—The employes of the Lackawanna and Pittsburg railroad, running from Belfast Junction to Anglica, have struck because of non-payment of wages. They claim seven months back pay. No trains have been running on the road since Monday night.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 1.—The river coal miners met at Monongahela City today and decided to strike on Friday unless the operators concede the three cents per bushel for mining. The operators claim that they are not able to pay more than the present rate—two and one-half cents. About 4,000 miners are employed in the river pits.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 1.—To the great surprise of the most interested the strike of tin-can makers became general to-day, and there is an entire suspension of that industry. Several employers offered within five cents per hundred of the demand of the employes, but the offer was rejected. The stock of cans on hand is said to be large and there is exhibited no disposition to yield on either side.

A Druggist's Terrible Mistake.

NEW YORK, August 31.—Druggist Ende, of Hoboken, last evening put up a prescription for the Misses Hulse, daughters of a well known citizen. The prescription called for quinine, and the druggist put up morphine. This morning one of the ladies died, and the other is dying. Ende has fled.

LATER—When an officer this evening went to the residence of Mr. A. M. Ende, the druggist whose blunder caused the death of Miss Hulse, he found that gentleman very despondent. He told the officer that he was ready to accompany him to the station house, but a moment later he informed him that he had taken poison and fell unconscious to the floor. Physicians were at once summoned, but his recovery is extremely doubtful. He had taken five grains of atraphia, the usual dose of which runs from 1-100 to 1-164 of a grain. Six physicians are bringing to bear their skill upon Miss Ella Hulse, whose condition is now considered almost hopeless. The body of the eldest daughter, Gretchen Margaret, has been prepared for burial. The parents are heart-broken over the sad affair. Mr. A. M. Ende is well known in medical circles.

Thrashing a Preacher.

YORK, Pa., Aug. 31.—A commotion was caused in the Evangelical church at Winterstown, this county, yesterday morning. The pastor had announced that he would preach a memorial sermon on General Grant. A man named Fulton said no such sermon should be preached. When the pastor, Rev. Shultz, began in his sermon a reference to the heroes of the Bible times, and then spoke of our hero just placed in his last resting place, Fulton called out to him to stop, at the same time advancing to the pulpit. The preacher continuing, Fulton seized him and dragged him away from the pulpit, striking him a blow with his fist and knocking him down. Simon Englebrecht, who interfered to save the pastor from assault, received one of Fulton's blows on his face. There was great excitement, and after a time order was restored and the services proceeded. Fulton, it is reported this morning, has skipped over the line into the state of Maryland.

Robbed of $2,000 on a Train.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31.—A. H. Roberts of Pennsylvania, while on a "bee line" train yesterday between Dayton and Springfield, discovered that he had been robbed of $2,000. The train was running very slow, and Roberts jumped off and, running forward, twice attempted to throw himself under the locomotive. He was prevented from doing so by a brakeman. He was arrested, and is now in jail in Dayton. He is 24 years old, and says that he lives in Pennsylvania.

Moody and Sankey.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 30.—Several thousand persons were present at the skating rink this afternoon and evening on the occasion of the religious services conducted by Moody and Sankey. The ministers of the Methodist, Baptist and Congregational churches were present and participat- in the services.

Explosion of Natural Gas.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 31.—The oven room at S. S. Marvin & Co.'s steam bakery, on Liberty street, was the scene of a frightful natural gas explosion this morning about 11 o'clock, by which five persons were terribly burned, two of them, it is thought, fatally. Their names were Samuel Stafford, engineer; W. B. Crebs, machinist; J. F. Huggins, foreman, and John Clark and Mary Charles, bakers.

The firm recently introduced natural gas into their ovens, and this morning the five persons named were engaged experimenting on the manufacture of a new line of goods. The gas had been turned off probably an hour and about 11 o'clock Engineer Stafford advanced to the mouth of the oven to relight it. Instantly there was an explosion, and flames shot out of the mouth of the oven, enveloping all in the room. Stafford and Huggins, who were directly in front of the oven, were burned in a horrible manner, and it is feared inhaled gas, in which case death is inevitable. The others had their clothes almost burned from their bodies, but were not fatally injured.

The explosion created intense excitement in the neighborhood and large crowds quickly gathered. The room being fire-proof, a conflagration was averted. The unfortunates were immediately removed to the West Penn hospital, where, at last accounts, they were resting easy. It is supposed that some person turned the gas on after it had been shut off by Stafford, and that the gas accumulating in the oven exploded as soon as it came in contact with the light.

Butler and the President.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Gen. Benj. F. Butler recently paid a visit to Justice Miller, who has been passing the summer at Block Island. When Col. Geo. B. Corkhill, a former district attorney of the District of Columbia, who is at the West End hotel, was interrogated by a correspondent as to the object of the visit, he replied:

"There was no political significance in his coming, but a great deal of business which will in the not remote future make matters lively in the whi'ehouse and elsewhere. I don't think there is any secrecy concerning it nor any attempt to conceal the real object. The real cause of the visit was the order of President Cleveland directing the owners of cattle in the Indian lands in the west to vacate their grazing grounds. General Butler is himself one of the proprietors of a large ranche, and his clients and personal friends represent many million dollars of capital thus invested. The order is therefore of very great consequence and importance to them, and he was preparing to sue the president of the United States, and the object of his visit was to ask a preliminary order restraining the execution of the proclamation of the president until the questions involved could be determined by the courts. General Butler's object was to present the matter to Judge Miller, Judge Blackford being absent from his circuit and not easy of access. General Butler, as I have said, represents many millions of dollars invested by his clients, and presented very cogent reasons for some order that would protect them. The desired order was not issued, and I did not hear any of the conversation with Justice Miller about it. I do not know what his views upon the question are."

John M'Cullough Sinking.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Reports have recently multiplied to the effect that John McCullough was rapidly sinking in his home, in the Bloomingdale Asylum, and that his death was but a question of a few months. Dr. Nichols, the medical superintendent of the asylum, was questioned to-day as to the truth of these reports.

"They are about correct," said the doctor; "as nearly so, at all events, as laymen can make reports that should be technical, Mr. McCullough is generally paralyzed and quite weak. He will walk a quarter of a mile or so at a time with an attendant at hand, but he moves about like an old man, sitting down and getting up with a great deal of difficulty. Mr. McCullough's physical condition is not greatly changed since he came here. He will not live years, he may not live many months, but to say that his death is but a question of months, as has been said, conveys the idea that he is nearer his end than he probably is. He makes a good patient. He is much quieter and happier than when he first came and seems contented to be here. His case is, of course, hopeless and I never held out to his friends the slightest hope of his recovery."

Mr. McCullough is very regular in his habits at Bloomingdale, but follows no cast-iron routine in disposing of his time.

A Wonderful Escape.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug 29.—Wm. Forman, of New Orleans, came here yesterday from Tallulah Falls for medical treatment. He tells a most wonderful story, all of which has been substantiated. While climbing up the rocks at the side of the falls his foot slipped and he fell, rolling down an incline of 400 feet, and then fell over a precipice 376 feet. He fell into a soft marsh. For more than thirty hours he remained where he fell, unable to move and almost too weak to call for assistance. At one time he saw members of a rescuing party withing thirty yards of him, but was unable to make himself heard. Fortunately he fell near a small stream and managed to obtain water by dipping his handkerchief into the water and sucking it. He also spread the handkerchief over his face to shut out the rays of the scorching sun. With his teeth he tore off pieces of the alpaca coat which he wore and made a sort of pad for his head to rest upon. The distance he fell has been measured and all his statements have been fully proved.

An Angry Mob Surrounds a Bank.

ERIE, Pa., August 30.—An outbreak occurred among the depositors of the German Savings Bank last evening. At the time the bank closed its doors the treasurer left the city, and it was then discovered that he had dumped in the bank his 368 shares which had cost him nothing, and he had taken the money for the same. The bank assignees, realizing the seriousness of the situation, called a meeting of the stockholders. While these gentlemen were deliberating on the inside last evening a crowd of angry depositors congregated on the outside and loud threats were made. A force of policemen was detailed to the scene of the excitement. Men of all the lowly stations in life, washerwomen and seamstresses were in the crowd. When it was announced that all the stockholders, with one exception, would pay their share of the bank's liabilities provided the late treasurer, John Eliot, would pay back to the bank the face of his three hundred and sixty-eight shares, which he had sold to himself, there was a howl of indignation. The name of the delinquent was demanded, and when Stockholder William Seelinger, was seen to be making a movement to leave, he was spotted as trying to shirk responsibility. Excited depositors under terrible threats informed Seelinger that he must sign the deed of acknowledgement of liability or he could not leave the room. He stubbornly refused at first, but finally capitulated and was liberated.

The Preller Mystery.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 30.—The young English surgeon, E. H. Graham Dewey, referred to in the letter received a day or two ago by Maxwell, the alleged murderer of Preller in St. Louis, which letter purports to have been written by Preller himself, from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., thinks the letter is very English in its phraseology and calls attention to several of its characteristics peculiar to Englishmen. Some characteristics he thinke he recognizes as belonging exclusively to Preller whom he knew quite well. The mention of Tewksbury in the letter is a startling coincidence, inasmuch as a conversation of the kind referred to in the letter actually did take place between Maxwell and Dewey, to which conversation Preller was a listener,

Dr. Dewey believes that Preller is alive. He credits to some extent, however, the theory that Maxwell may have administered an overdose of chloroform to Preller, and then have tried to dispose of the body as found in the trunk in the Southern Hotel. He knows that Preller carried a heavy insurance on his life, because he was told so by Preller himself.

Dr. Dewey further says that he does not believe that the body supposed to be Preller's was ever satisfactorily identified and gives his reasons for his belief. He knew both Maxwell and Preller very well, but is as much mystified by this case as any one else.

An Elephant on the Rampage.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—About 2 o'clock this morning a large elephant in one of O'Brien's circus tents, on South Broad street, broke loose, and pulling down part of the tent, rushed around the enclosure wildly. Great excitement ensued, being increased by the cries of other animals, and the employes ran out calling for the police. The latter declined to assist in the recapture, and eventually a force of workmen secured the fractious beast. John Kemberling, a resident of Altoona, was picked up by the elephant and hurled a long distance, receiving serious injuries. He was taken to the Pennsylvania hospital.

A Riot Caused by the Cholera Epidemic.

MADRID, Aug. 30.—A riot has occured at Almoria, in Andalusia. The increasing cholera mortality having driven most of the wealthy residents from the city, a large number of poor people were deprived of employment. This deserting on the part of the rich employers incensed the laboring class, and the feeling of indignation culminated in a riotous outbreak. Many of the houses of the wealthy were wrecked by the mob. The soldiers were called out, and in conflicts that ensued eight persons were killed and twelve others wounded.

A Drowning Accident at Cape May.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 30.—Albert Barris, aged 24 years, a lithographer of Philadelphia was drowned near the steamboat wharf this morning. He had assisted in getting off a yacht which had been aground and as soon as he reached deep water jumped overboard to swim ashore but immediately sank, uttering a cry for help. Although several persons were on shore near at hand they were powerless to assist the unfortunate young man. His body has not been recovered.

The Religion that will Prevail.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 30.—The Russian government has issued a decree making the Greek church the established religion of the Baltic provinces. Protestantism will only be tolerated. Children born of mixed marriages are to be trained in the Greek church. The decree is certain to excite great discontent among the German settlers.

Arrested for False Pretense.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—In the police court in this city to-day Maurice Winelander, of Philadelphia, 21 years of age was held for trial on a charge of Berliner & Strauss, of this city, of obtaining goods on pretense of representing Simon Miller, of Hazleton, Pa.

Killed in a Mine.

GIRARDVILLE, Pa., Aug. 30.—James McDermott, a miner, was instantly killed at Stanton colliery last night by being crushed between the cage and one of the props. He had just finished his work and was entering the cage to be hoisted when the accident occurred.

The Closing Day at Chautauqua.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Prof. W. H. Crogman, of Georgia, a colored man, lectured this morning on the "African Problem," and Prof. Alfred M. Wheeler, of Yale, delivered the last of his historical lectures on "The Congress of Vienna." At 11 o'clock Judge Albion W. Tourgee, of Mayville, N. Y., lectured on "Cain, Herod & Co." and after a few affecting closing remarks by Chancellor John A. Vincent, D. D., of Springfield, N. Y., the Chautauqua exercises for 1885 closed.

Protection for German Industries.

VIENNA, Aug. 30.—Count Kalroky has returned from Varsein. It is learned that Prince Bismarck maintains the conviction that protection alone will save German industries. The German chancellor urged Count Kalroky to adopt the strongest protective measures for Austria and Hungary. German competition in coal and cereals continues to weigh heavily on Austrian producers.

Belief that Gordon is Alive.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The belief is growing among the military and other friends of General Gordon that he really escaped alive from Khartoum and succeeded in fleeing to the equator. So strong has this faith become that a mission has been organized to search for and rescue him. The work of preparing this mission for the enterprise is almost completed.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

Physiology and Hygiene Again.

As an article appeared in yesterday's Watchman criticising the School Board of Bellefonte for ignoring the majority report of the physicians appointed by the School Board to "examine the different text books of Hygiene and Physiology, with special reference to the effect of alcohol and narcotics on the human system, and to report in their judgment the best book suitable for the purposes intended," it would not be improper in me nor uninteresting to your readers to report somewhat in detail what was said and done by the physicians.

It was very evident that each one of the physicians had examined the different text books placed in their hands with care and interest. Dr. Fairlamb was the first to express an opinion. He favored Dr. Smith's books. Dr. Dartt next gave his opinion and he favored Mrs. Hunt's books. Dr. Seibert favbred Dr. Smith's books, and the writer Mrs. Hunt's books. Dr. Hibler was the last to give an opinion, and made the longest speech and favored Mrs. Hunt's books. There was then a conversational interchange of opinion and Dr. Hibler made a second speech in favor of Mrs. Hunt's books. Dr. Fairlamb then asked each of the committee to vote. The vote was taken viva voce, Drs. Hibler, Dartt and Hayes voting for Mrs. Hunt's books, and Drs. Fairlamb and Seibert for Dr. Smith's books. We agreed to make a majority and a minority report, and while the reports were being prepared Dr. Hibler said he would sign the report favoring Dr. Smith's books.

The different members of the committee spoke in the highest praise of all the books before them, and believed they were equally good and admirably adapted to teach these important branches.

The writer would say, for himself that Mrs. Hunt's books are approved and indorsed by the best medical men in the country. Drs. Palmer and Hunt are both men of national reputation and both interested and identified in medical education.

In conclusion, we would recommend the parents as well as the children to read Mrs. Hunt's books. Parents will find in these small books much valuable instruction and knowledge. And so far as the temperance instruction in these books is concerned, it is in perfect accord with recent scientific research and can not be successfully contradicted, as it is the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

THOS. R. HAYES.

Physiology and Hygiene.

EDITOR OF REPUBLICAN—Dear Sir: In your edition of August 29 appears an article by Dr. Hayes which pretends to be a report of the action of the committee of physicians appointed by the school board to report on the merits of different school books on hygiene, etc. That report of Dr. Hayes, which claims to be a detailed account, is nothing more than a one-sided attack on one of the physicians and amounts, by suppressing the most important parts, to nothing but a misrepresentation. The writer of this card, the day before the meeting of the physicians, in his office, in the presence of Mr. J. P. Harris, and Mr. Flint, a book agent, stated that it would be just as well to vote for Mrs. Hunt's book, as that book would likely be preferred by the school board, irrespective of what would be the decision of our committee. At the meeting of the committee of physians I stated in my turn that I had examined Dr. Smith's series more than any of the other books, having received it some days in advance of the others, and liked it best; but as Mrs. Hunt's book was certainly the one which would be given the preference by the school board, and as there was not much difference between them as to contents, let them (meaning the school board) have their choice, and give our decision accordingly. On Dr. Fairlamb's reading here the secretary of the school board's circular, which demanded the decision of the committee as to which book would be the best in their judgment, the writer of this stated that according to that view of it he would vote for the Smith series, and without any more discussion the report was signed.

The writer has been informed that Dr. Hayes, on Tuesday preceding the meeting of the medical committee declared himself in favor of Dr. Smith's books and thought there would be no division in the opinion of the committee on this subject.

Whatever might have been Dr. Hayes' motives for publishing his so-called report, we let the readers judge for themselves.

A. HIBLER.

—The fruit in Dr. A. Hibler's yard is maturing rapidly and beautifully. There are five or six pear trees, all quite young, but each one bearing a few large, perfect pears. The greatest wonder in this collection is a pear tree perhaps not more than 2½ feet in height and less than three years old which is literally weighed down with large pears, each one of which is a faultless specimen of its kind. The grape vines, although not numerous are burdened with bunches of grapes which are now beginning to color. The grapes are large and the bunches beautiful and symmetrical in shape. The Doctor certainly seems to understand the art of cultivating fruit of all kinds, and in a few years will have a fruit garden of which any gardener, however expert, might well be proud.

—The battle for the National league pennant in the base ball world promises to increase in interest as the season draws to a close. The New York club has lessened the gap between it and Chicago, but the latter has still an advantage in having twenty games to play upon its home grounds and only four away from home, and these are to be played at St. Louis. The Chicago team has been playing to good luck in the past week and more confidence is felt. New York is in good trim and may yet down Chicago. The Philadelphia is slowly closing in on Providence for third place. Boston and Buffalo are having a hot fight for fifth place, and St. Louis and Detroit are very near each other at the tail end.

—Pension Commisioner Black has just decided in two cases of pensioners who had arms amputated below but near the shoulder joint that they were entitled, under the act of March 3, 1885, to pensions of $37.50 per month. The decision covers, it is believed, all cases of amputation near the elbow, knee or hip joint where the cut is so near as to render the remaining bone useless, the language of the law being identical and the principal involved being the same.

SPECIAL MENTION.

—Mr. Henry McCauley advertises 110 acres of timber land for sale. It will be sold on Thursday, October 1, in three equal parts. The sale will take place at the residence of David Orr, in Marion township. The land is located in Marion Township and the growth of timber consists of a superior quality of chestnut and yellow pine. See advertisement in this issue.

—The expenses of keeping the poor people for the month of August, 1885, amounted to $114.40. This includes fuel, clothing and provisions.

Pretty cousin (to young doctor)—'So you are a full-fledged doctor, are you, Tom?" Young doctor—"Yes; I got my diploma last week." Pretty cousin—"Have you any specialty?" Young doctor—"Yes; I shall make children's diseases a specialty." Pretty cousin—"Ah, yes, I see; and as you gain experience in your profession you will be able to attend older people. That's right, Tom; begin at the bottom and work your way up."

The Present Generation

Lives at telegraphic speed—eats too fast, retires too late, does not rise betimes, smokes and (alas, that we should have to say it!) chews too much tobacco. The consequences are dyspepsia, a general absence of that robust and manly vigor which characterized our ancestors, and a manifest proneness to early decay. Regular hours, a due allowance of time for meals, the disuse of excessive smoking, and altogether of chewing tobacco, in connection with a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, will in nine cases out of ten efface consequences of the abuses of the laws of health indicated above. A want of stamina, dyspepsia, nervousness and biliousness are among these consequences, and they are bodily ills to the removal of which the Bitters is specially adapted. Nor is the Bitters less fitted to overcome and prevent fever and ague, kidney and bladder troubles and rheumatic ailments. It is also a fine appetizer and promoter of convalescence.

Sales Register.

Wednesday, September 16, at Mount Eagle, this county, at 1 o'clock p. m., farming implements and household goods, the property of the late Peter Haines. Sold by Michael Lebkicher, administrator.

There will be a sale of farm stock and implements and a large variety of household goods, china and glassware at the residence of D. S. Erb, at Eristown, two miles west of Pine Grove Mills, on Thursday, October 8, at 10 o'clock a. m. See bills for particulars.

Messrs. Alexander Harpster and Samuel Goss, executors, will sell 340 acres of farm land in Ferguson township, on Thursday, September 24. One hundred and sixty acres of this are cleared. It can be divided in parts to suit the purchaser. Those who want to purchase good land should consult the large bills which are posted up. The sale will take place on the premises in Ferguson township, near Pennsylvania Furnace, at 1 o'clock p. m. on said day.

The Academy.

A few improvements have been made in the Academy building. Several of the school rooms have been papered and calcimined in preparation for the opening of the Fall term next Monday.

These improvements only serve, however, to suggest the great need for other and much more extensive improvements. It is a fact to be regretted that Bellefonte has no educational institution which is a credit to the town and which accords with its reputed intelligence and culture. We are perfectly aware that so far as the mere mental culture of the school is concerned it is as high as could be procured or is desired. But the Principal of the school long since gave up the idea of making it more than a private school for the benefit of students from the town. Applications from students at a distance who know the reputation of the institution and that a graduate of it has positive advantages over graduates of other schools in preparing for college, are received daily, but in every instance the applicant must be told that if he comes here he must secure board outside the school. Why is this? Because none of the surroundings of the school are such as young ladies and gentlemen of wealth are accustomed to. The rooms are but insufficiently furnished, the building is not provided with any of the modern conveniences—electric light, steam heat, hot and cold water, etc.,—and in many instances the accommodations are not as complete and thorough as are those given to the dumb brutes in the stables owned by the parents of these young people at their homes. Knowing that their children will not be under the Principal's care when not in the school room, careful parents of course hesitate in sending their children here.

But even day scholars find it an uninteresting place. The school apparatus and other accessories are not equal even to those of the public schools. The building itself is dingy in appearance and has a neglected aspect. Since the completion of the new railroad which affords a full view of it to travelers it appears to less advantage. While other buildings in the town have a bright, prosperous appearance it looks ever the same. Why cannot a coat of paint be given it this fall? It would work a wonderful improvement in the appearance of the structure. Is there not enough educational pride in Bellefonte to make these improvements? Some towns have several such institutions, all of which are prosperous. Cannot Bellefonte take care of one?

News from Brush.

Seeding time is here.

The potato crop is very good.

Sugar Valley Camp-meeting last Sunday—rather much rain for comfort, but no lightning this time.

The Evangelical church at Rebersburg is at present undergoing extensive repairs, and will, when finished, compare favorably with any church in our valley.

Mr. Henry Walbone, a pauper, died on the 30th ult. aged some 80 years. If the graveyard life insurance companies were still in successful operation, the hearts of quite a number of our citizens would throb for joy, as many policies on his life were issued, aggregating thousands of dollars.

Our sporting men are ready to convince that rodent mammel of the trees, that it is no longer protected by law, and that its present safety depends upon its sagacity and fleetness of foot.

Quite a number of our farmers have their entire crops threshed at a very small cost, owing to the fact that several parties with separator and steam power are underbidding each other. MILES.

Coal Yard Reopened.

The Snow Shoe coal yard, which has not been in operation since the sale several months ago to the Lehigh Coal Company, has been reopened and stocked with the very best quality of Snow Shoe coal. Mr. James I. Foster will have charge of the new business and he is a very accomodating and agreeable gentleman with whom it will be a pleasure to transact business.

The fact that this coal yard is again in operation under such a competent management will be received with pleasure by the many who have been accustomed to deal there for years past. We bespeak for Mr. Foster a large increase on the trade of former years. The coal office is located in the old place on the street east of the mill race, the second building in the rear of the Bush House.

—Moyer Lyon, one of Danville's oldest citizens and most prominent business men, passed through here yesterday morning, taking day express for home. He had been up to Bellefonte visiting his son, William A. Lyon, whom everybody up there and a great many here know as the "jolly butcher boy" and prosperous young man of Bellefonte.—Lock Haven Democrat of Monday.

A State Robber Betrayed.

HELENA, Mont., Aug 31.—The Marysville coach was stopped by two highwaymen about eight miles out of Helena on Saturday and the treasure box, containing about $12,000 in bullion from the Drumlummon mine, was taken. The passengers were relieved of their valuables. One of the robbers had given the plot away to officers, and when the treasure box was being broken open the Sheriff and a posse captured the robbers and recovered the booty. The passengers had been made to stand in line at the muzzle of a gun held by one of the highwaymen, while the other went through them in the old-fashioned manner. The prisoners were named Jackson and Gordon. Gordon will be released and get the reward of $600. Jackson has served seven years in the California penitentiary for stage robbing. He claims that Gordon has worked the same scheme before, giving away plots for robbery and getting rewards.

Firing a Bridge to Wreck a Train.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Aug. 31.—News has been received here of an unsuccessful attempt made by a gang of masked men early Sunday morning to burn a bridge on the Indianapolis, Bloomington and Western Railroad near Danvers. It is thought their intention was to wreck the through express train which passes here after midnight. A farmer discovered the bridge on fire and started to quench the flames, but was commanded to "move on and let that alone." He drove hastily to Danvers, three miles distant, and gave the alarm in time to stop the express. The train approached cautiously, and stopped and half a dozen men fled to the brush. The bridge was eighty-four feet long and fifteen feet high. It had been saturated with kerosene and was badly burned.

Visited by Another Storm.

CHARLESTON, Sept. 1.—A very heavy rain and wind storm yesterday caused damage to the extent of $100,000 in this city. Last week's cyclone caused losses amounting to $2,000,000 and damaged 5,000 buildings but the citizens are not disheartened by these misfortunes and are energetically pushing repairs forward. New cotton is now coming in and being handled promptly.

A Rumored Western Union Strike.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—A rumor is circulated here to the effect that the employes of the Western Union telegraph company will strike on the 15th inst. The men, it is claimed, are dissatisfied, because the company has put extra work on them without extra compensation. The arrangements for the proposed strike are said to be on an extensive scale.

EXECUTORS' SALE.

Will be sold at public auction on the premises in Ferguson township, about one and a half miles from Rock Spring, near Pennsylvania Furnace, on THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1885.

Commencing at 1 o'clock p. m., the following described REAL ESTATE, consisting of

340 Acres of Good Farm Land,

More or less, 160 of which are cleared, the balance covered with a good growth of Chestnut and Oak Timber, bounded and described as follows: North and east by lands of Shorb, Stewart & Co., south by lands of C. Miller, and west by lands of —— Ellenberger. There is on the farm a good TWO STORY HOUSE, containing ten rooms; a good Bank Barn and all other necessary outbuildings. There is a good well of water near the house, and a nice orchard on the place. The Lewisburg, Centre and Spruce Creek Railroad passes through one side of the place. The land is all underlaid with a bed of good Iron Ore.

The farm of 160 acres will be sold, if the purchaser so desires, together with as much of the timber land, more or less, as may be wanted or will be otherwise divided to suit buyers, or sold all together. In case the farm is divided and all of the timber is not wanted the balance will be sold in lots to suit. For further particulars address the undersigned.

The Chinese Question.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—John Russell Young, ex-minister to China, in an interview yesterday, said: The emigration question is not understood in America. Immigration from China comes from one point alone—Canton. It is a city of a million people, the centre of a vast province, the most southern port in China. Within seven hours of Canton, by river, is Hong Kong. Hong Kong is a British settlement, as much under the British flag as is Cork or Liverpool. All the traffic in the way of emigration to America comes from Hong Kong, mainly through English houses. There is no stipulation or treaty, and there can be none to justify us in asking the Chinese to prevent Chinamen from going from Canton to Hong Kong. Once there they are free from Chinese influence.

If the American government wishes to reach the emigration question, it will have to go to Lord Salisbury and ask him to so instruct his government in Hong Kong, so that there may be no emigration. The British governor general at Hong Kong, whom I know very well, and whose guest I have been, said that he was perfectly willing, if the American government wished it, to stop the emigration, but I had no instructions. There is nothing in the record to show that China has ever endeavored to evade the treaty. On the contrary, she has forced it even more stringently than any request of ours calls for. The Chinese do not care for emigration. They would like to stop the whole thing to-morrow. They do not, of course, like the idea of other nationalities being accepted in America and they being excluded; but that is a question of pride on their part.

Wonders of the Microscope.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—A morning paper publishes a special despatch from Lincoln, Neb., saying that a man in that city had discovered by scientific means that man has a dual body. He is a devout Christian, and believes that the soul of a man is a counterpart of the body itself. He reasoned that within this body of bone and sinew was yet another body, existing in vapory form, which death alone should free, and that by a simple microscopic device the dull sight of human eyes might penetrate the minutest particles of the air we breathe and see the soul take form and flight to the boundaries of another world. His attention was first attracted to this, he says, by a man lying on a sofa suffering with a pain in his foot, and yet there was no foot there to suffer, the leg having been amputed nearly to the hip.

"For years," he says, "this incident ran through my mind, until at last I resolved upon an experiment. I procured the most powerful lenses I could find, and completed an invention of my own, and when I had my light arranged perfectly, so I could examine the microbes of the air, I called upon a friend who had lost his arm, and explained that I wanted him to put his imaginary hand where I directed. He laughingly accompanied me to my room, and did as I desired. The moment I adjusted the glass a world of revelation broke upon me. The dual hand lay beneath my glass. I asked him to make letters with his imaginary finger. He did so, and, to his wonder and astonishment, I spelled out the sentences he wrote. That was conclusive evidence to me, and you know the rest."

Fraudulent Labor Contracts.

CHICAGO, August 28.—One or more employment agents in this city have advertised of late for large numbers of laborers to go to Manitoba to work on the Canadian Pacific railway. The statement is given currency here to-day that vast numbers of laborers have been recently shipped into that far-away region only to discover that it was impossible to procure work there. They declare that this shipping of laborers into that locality results only in great disappointment and distress to the victims of what they look upon as an organized swindle. In a published statement Frank McCarthy, of Eau Claire, says of the adventures of four hundred men who were taken out by an agent: "Nobody would give us work of any kind. Only a portion could even get shoveling. The contractors said they knew nothing about us. We had great difficulty in getting back over the 1,600 miles to Winnipeg again, but managed to get passes as far as Winnipeg. There were about three hundred of us back in Winnipeg by July 20, with no prospect of work of any kind. The public authorities fed us until August 2, when we had to look out for ourselves. Only comparatively few of us could get away. Some of my companions pawned their watches and tools to get money to get back to Eau Claire."

Carr Arrested and in Jail.

WILLIAMSPORT, Aug. 26.—Policeman Berry returned to-day from Sunbury with a prisoner, E. B. Carr, who is charged with conspiracy in attempting to defraud P. W. Trumbower, of Muncy, out of three hundred dollars. The policeman went to Sunbury last night and found Carr concealed in a house which was locked and barricaded. Having no authority to enter he waited until Carr's attorney arrived on the train. When the lawyer entered the house Berry followed and handcuffed Carr, whom he lodged in Sunbury Jail. Carr is a handsome young fellow and is wanted at several places for different offenses. He has a wife and two children in stringent circumstances and his wife is almost heart-broken over his arrest. He was committed in default of $500 bail.

The Democratic Convention.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 26.—The democratic state convention was called to order this morning at half-past 10 o'clock, the opera house being packed and over four hundred delegates being present.

R. H. Allen, of Lycoming, was elected temporary chairman by acclamation.

Jacob C. Turney, of Westmoreland, was elected permanent chairman.

The resolution denunciatory of the attempt to transfer competing railroad lines to the Pennsylvania is as follows:

Sixth, We denounce as in flagrant violation of the constitution the attempt to consolidate the South Pennsylvania and Beech Creek railways with the Pennsylvania railroad company, and we heartily approve the proceedings of the commonwealth, through the governor and attorney general, to protect and preserve the rights of the people under the constitution.

Nominations being in order, Conrad R. Day was named by W. U. Hensel for state treasurer and seconded by W. S. Stenger.

There was no opposition, and Mr. Day was nominated by acclamation. The convention then adjourned sine die.

Huntingdon Veterans.

HUNTINGDON, August 28.—A movement has been started in the northern portion of the county for a grand reunion in this city during the coming autumn of all the men from the county who served in the Union Army or Navy during the rebellion. There have been a number of reunions here, but many soldiers could not participate in them, because there are not enough representatives of some regiments in the county to hold a reunion. It is the latter who are agitating the matter now. They are anxious to secure a meeting of all those who went into the service during the four years of the war.

Huntingdon county, from the last estimates that can be made, furnished enough men for more than two full regiments, but they were scattered through more than thirty different commands, and were in every army and on every battlefield of the war.

Post No. 44, Grand Army of the Republic of this city, will have a street parade on the 17th of September, the anniversary of the battle of Antietam, and it may be that the county reunion will be held then if there be sufficient time for the necessary preparations.

Touched his Tongue to the Wire.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 25.—Late yesterday evening a lot of boys, from 18 to 21 years of age, gathered around the works of the Louisiana Electric Light Company of Feliciana street and played with the wire. They had been in the habit of taking a wire from around a broom, tying a stone at the end of it, throwing it over the electric wire, and making it fast to a gate knob. When the current was turned on, the boys would take hold of the small wire and feel a tingling sensation. Last evening Richard Emile Abrens became bolder than the rest of the boys and put his tongue to the wire. The shock went through and prostrated him, and his brother exclaimed. "My God, he is killed!" At these words Abrens got up and said: "No, I am not yet dead." He had hardly spoken when he fell back a corpse.

Through a Railroad Bridge.

NATCHEZ, Miss. Aug 27.—A passenger train on the Natchez, Jackson and Columbus railroad went through Bayon Pierre bridge this afternoon. The train ran off the track at the east end of the bridge and after thumping over the cross ties went into the Bayon, near the west end of the structure. The locomotive, tender, baggage and mail car and the smoking car, all going down. Following is the list of casualties: Killed instantly, Engineer Powell, Fireman John McCluthy and Brakeman Robert Perry; dangerously injured, Mail Agents A. A. Anderson and W. F. Barclay, of Larned; Slightly injured, Express Messenger J. A. Lane, Brakeman T. Cochran, R. H. Truly and R. W. Campbell, James Ning, newsboy, Henry Bueker and J. B. Seighel.

Nail Makers in Convention.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 26.—An adjourned meeting of the Western Nail association is in progress here to day, with a full representation of the mills west of the Alleghenies. The members refuse to give any information until the close of the meeting. Trade is reported to be looking up, and manufacturers anticipate an early resumption. A conference of striking miners and employers will be held this afternoon at the Shoenberger mill. One of the strikers returned to work this morning, but was afterward induced to suspend work again by other strikers. The break was the first in this district, and caused considerable excitement.

Terrible Loss of Life and Property.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Details of the destruction in Canton, China, and vicinity by the recent great rainstorm there have been received by private parties in this city. The flood was the most serious which has visited Canton in thirty years. More than 10,000 persons lost their lives and a far larger number are left in a starving condition. Entire villages were engulfed and rice and silk crops in the vicinity were almost ruined. The price of rice has been raised 18 per cent. in consequence of the loss of the crop.

A Huntingdon County Blaze.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—A special to the Times from Huntingdon, Pa., says that the large dwelling house on the farm belonging to the estate of John Gregory, in West township, was destroyed by fire last night, causing a loss of $5,000. Only two or three articles of furniture were saved. The fire was caused by sparks from a flue.

A Frightful Accident.

PITTSBURG, August 26.—Mary Holleran, a domestic in the employ of Mr. George Chalmers, who resides in Oakland, met with a terrible accident last night, She had been ironing last evening, and when carrying a lighted lamp in one hand and a heavy ironing board under her arm she tripped and fell. The lamp was broken and in a moment the unfortunate girl was in flames. Her cries attracted the attention of Mr. Chalmers, who ran into the room and after great trouble succeeded in extinguishing the flames. The victim, however, had been terribly burned about the head, arms and breast, and Mr. Chalmers was also severely burned on the hands and arms. Medical aid was secured as soon as possible, and everything possible done to alleviate the girl's sufferings. She lingered until this morning, when death ended her sufferings. The girl was about 18 years of age.

Full Dress at the Opera.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The directors of the grand opera of Paris recently announced that hereafter persons not properly dressed would not be admitted to the auditorium of the opera house during performances. The director's idea of propriety in dress consists of swallow-tailed coats, low vests, expansive shirt fronts and no jewelry for gentlemen, and low corsages, short sleeves and no bonnets for ladies. The rule was first enforced last night. Several people in ordinary promenade attire presented themselves for admission, and were not allowed to pass the gates. Many of them had tickets entitling them to reserved seats and boxes, but they were all ignominiously expelled if their attire did not conform to the regulation. There was much indignation and several rows. There are some threats to-day of suing the directors for damages.

Unseasonable Weather.

SELINSGROVE, Pa., Aug. 27.—All day yesterday it was uncomfortably cold. At about ten o'clock in the forenoon a snow squall passed over the mountains northwest of F. J. Schoch & Co's flour mills, a distance of about two miles from here. The snow fell so thick and fast that it was impossible to see the mountain a quarter of a mile distant. It was a very singular occurrence for this time of the year, though it was cold enough to snow here at some parts of the day.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Aug. 27.—Considerable snow fell last evening at Houtzdale, Clearfield County, and along the base of the Stone Mountain, in Jackson and Barree townships, this county. The weather to-night is extremely cold.

A Groundless Indian Scare.

PIERRE, Dak., Aug. 28.—There was much excitement here, owing to a report that the Indians on the Cheyenne agency, above Pierre, were on the warpath and had threatened the agent. A messenger was dispatched to the agency and it was found that no trouble existed and the Indians were perfectly satisfied and happy. Major Swan, the agent, when told the report, was surprised. The Cheyenne agency is believed to be one of the best managed in the country, and the Indians are far above the average for intelligence. Their chief expressed himself as being well satisfied with the treatment accorded to his tribe.

Deluged by Burning Whisky.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—A fire broke out this morning in the liquor store of Martin Byrnes, 72 Lewis street. Several men were drinking there at the time and they took a hand in trying to extinguish the flames. The fire communicated to one of a number of barrels of whisky stored in the saloon and the barrel exploded with terrific force. Two men, named Thomas Lestrange, thirty years old, and Henry McGoldrick, aged twenty-seven years, were deluged with the fiery liquid and severely burned. The men were removed to the hospital. The flames were afterwards extinguished by the Fire Department. The loss was not very heavy.

Dynamite in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—At 2 o'clock this morning an explosion occurred in the show-window of James B. Rodgers' saloon at the northeast corner of Nineteenth and Callowhill streets. The explosion shattered the glass in all the windows within half a block of the saloon. Upon examination it was found that some one had placed a dynamite cartridge upon the window-sill, as the mark of the fuse could be seen. Rodgers says he has no enemies and can imagine no cause for the attempt to blow him up. The damage will amount to $2,500.

Heavy Pressure on a Bank.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—It was stated by President Kennedy, of the Spring Garden bank this evening that the bank had paid out to-day in round numbers $200,000 and had received on deposits about $60,000. At a meeting of the directors this evening it was decided to instruct the officers to proceed with business as usual. It is understood that several local banks have offered to assist the Spring Garden bank during the run on it.

A Monster Sea Turtle.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—A sea turtle weighing nearly 900 pounds was found entangled in a net off Rockportto-day and gotten ashore. The creature is eight feet long and more than three feet broad and twenty inches deep. His fore flippers are each more than a yard long, and from tip to tip they span eight feet. There is a school of these monsters off Cape Ann.

Reuben E. Fenton Dead.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Ex-Governor Reuben E. Fenton died suddenly this afternoon at Jamestown at about 3 o'clock while at his desk in the First National Bank, of which he was president.

Beecher to Pronounce the Boston Eulogy.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—The Boston city Government decided on the day of Gen. Grant's death to have a formal memorial service, and a committee was designated to select the eulogist for the occasion. The committee first spoke to Gen. Sherman, but he instantly replied that the man was not living who could properly perform the task. The committee seems to have thought of but two others, Roscoe Conkling and Henry Ward Beecher. Whether Conkling was asked and declined is not positively known, but it is given out to-night that Beecher has accepted an invitation and will pronounce the eulogy. The date will be fixed to suit his convenience.

The Cholera.

MADRID, Aug. 28.—Four thousand five hundred and eighty new cases of cholera are reported from the infected districts of Spain for the past twenty-four hours, and 1,426 deaths.

TOULON, Aug. 28.—Thirty-three deaths from cholera occurred in this city yesterday.

MARSEILLES, Aug. 28.—Nineteen deaths from cholera occurred in this city yesterday.

Cured by Lightning.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 25.—Burge, a railroad man, has for a number of years been suffering with a paralyzed arm. When the storm came on Saturday evening he was out in his yard, and was about to pull up a bucket of water when lightning struck his arm. He attempted to move it, and to his great delight he discovered that the stroke of lightning had made his arm alive again.

Snow Near Wilkesbarre.

WILKESBARRE, Aug. 26.—From early morning yesterday until late last night there was a heavy downpour of rain in this county. At Harvey's Lake, ten miles from here, snow fell this morning and continued until noon, with slight intervals. The weather hereabouts has taken a decided change and is quite cold.

"It's No Use," Says the despondent dyspeptic. But it is of use. Your sufferings can be relieved; thousands have been cured, and you can also. Broken down, desponding victims of dyspepsia, liver complaint, fever and ague, rheumatism, nervous debility or premature decay, will find in Simmons Liver Regulator a vegetable specific which reaches the source of the trouble and effects an absolute and permanent cure. It regulates the liver, dispels despondency and restores health.

"No," said the Vermont deacon. "I don't approve of hoss racin', and when another member of the church becomes so godless as to try and pass me on the road comin' home from meetin' I feel it my duty to the church to let out a leetle on the reins, just to keep him from puttin' his trust in earthly things."

Speer's Wine for Consumptives.

Consumptive persons are greatly benefitted by the use of Speer's Port Grape Wine. It gives nourishment when everything else fails, and physicians prescribe it as a rich, nutritious wine. Prominent physicians and members connected with the New York Board of Health have inspected Speer's vineyards and wine cellars and speak of his products in the highest terms. For sale by druggists.

Didn't want that kind of music: Mrs. Montague—"Do you sing, Mr. De Lyle?" Mr. De Lyle, with a superior smile—"I belong to the college glee club." Mrs. Montague, disappointed—"Oh, I'm so sorry. I hoped that you sang."

LIVER COMPLAINT is declared by many old sufferers, after years of medical experiment to be incurable, and yet VINEGAR BITTERS has effected innumerable permanent and perfect cures of chronic cases. Invalids, do not suffer longer, but purchase a bottle of the Bitters and judge for yourselves.

American activity: At hotel: First youth to his companion, "I say, Smithe, why on earth do you order minced calf's head so often?" Smith languidly, "Ah! well, you see it's to chew."

His Slippery Glass Eye.

"The Squire," says the author of the "Hoosier Schoolmaster," "wore one glass eye and a wig. The glass eye was constantly slipping out of focus, and the wig turning around sidewise on his head whenever he addressed the people of the Flat Creek District." Sad spectacle. Parker's Hair Balsam preserves and promotes the growth of the natural hair. It also restores the natural color to hair which has faded or become gray. Clean, elegant, beneficial, highly perfumed.

"It was a terrible accident. He never will be able to talk again." "Why not? He only lost his arms." "Yes, but he can't talk with his toes, and he's deaf and dumb."

The secret art of beauty lies not in cosmetics, but is only in pure blood and a healthy performance of the vital functions, to be obtained by using Burdock Blood Bitters.

As a drug clerk the female is not a brilliant success. When you wink at her across a soda fountain she doesn't know whether to put a little Balm of Gilead in your soda, or hang her head and blush.

—It seems in our Centre county's clime
Each season has its ills;
We're drawing very near the time
When icemen send their bills,
And frigid winter brings its woes,
As well as torrid summer,
For then our water pipes are froze
And we must pay the plumber.

Three Days at Arctic Springs.

On Thursday, August 20, quite a large and interesting party of young people made an excursion to Arctic Springs, near Philipsburg, for the purpose of enjoying themselves for a few days in that romantic summer resort. The party was composed of ladies and gentlemen, twenty in all, from Buffalo Run, Lemont, Boalsburg, Martha Furnace, Lock Haven and Snow Shoe. Mr. Dr. Thompson, of Snow Shoe, chaperoned the party, and it is useless to say that this estimable lady commanded the esteem of all who were so fortunate as to be there. The party stayed three days and when the appointed time came for their departure for home it was with a feeling of reluctance that they left this romantic spot, perhaps not to return for a year.

The grounds are artistically laid out and ornamented with taste. Tennis and croquet grounds are arranged for those who are fond of such games. A large swing and hammocks are suspended among the trees for persons who desire to spend their time more leisurely. A nice platform is erected for the use of those who delight in the dance. In the centre of the ravine boils up a magnificent spring of sparkling cold water into a beautifully carved marble basin, which adds greatly to the attractive appearance of the place. So strong is the flow from this spring that it soon widens into a broad sheet of water and forms a beautiful fish pond, which is alive with different kinds of fish and furnishes pleasure to those who delight in the pursuit of the denizens of the water.

For the accommodation of visitors, Mr. Bilger, the proprietor, has erected a house on the plan of a small hotel, which is at the disposal of his guests. This excellent gentleman takes great pride in leaving nothing undone which would add to the enjoyment of the visitors and is ever on the alert trying to rectify any defects which might possibly detract from the pleasure of a single guest. The party who spent the three days so enjoyably at this place was composed of the following persons: Miss McFarlane, Miss Jack and Messrs. Frank McFarlane and Jack Mitchell, of Boalsburg; Miss Cook and Miss Mollie Mitchell, of Lemont; Misses Ellie Green, Bessie Green, Sudie Ligget, Annie Gray, Minnie Gray and Messrs. G. G. Mattern, W. E. Gray, Samuel Green and Robert Hunter, of Buffalo Run; Mr. Budd Thompson, of Martha; Mr. Louden Kyle, of Lock Haven; Miss Stewart, Mrs. Dr. Thompson and Mr. Will Stewart, of Snow Shoe. A party largely composed of the same persons visited Arctic Springs lsat year.

"G." Replies to "Poser."

A certain article appeared in the Daily News a few days since with regard to the impropriety of attending campmeeting on Sunday. I think it is wise to look at this question fairly, as there are certainly more aspects than one in viewing this question. Let me answer the two questions advanced by "poser" in the article mentioned, as the writer did not have the courage to answer them himself. The Sunday services held in our church edifices have unquestionably been elevating spiritually to the sincere worshiper, indeed they have resulted in accomplishing a vast amount of good, viz., in bringing multitudes from "darkness into the marvelous light of the Gospel." Why? Because God used the means employed. Has this not been a truism with regard to our Sunday-camp-meeting services? Have they not been fraught with very abundant blessings? How many there began to think of their unsaved condition? How many erring ones have started the new life from the impulses of those beautiful Sabbath hours? They probably never would have been reached through any other channel, but there, like Saul of Tarsus, they were arrested by the Spirit. The most powerful sermons have been preached at our Sunday camp-meetings. These telling facts those who are opposed to these institutions cannot gainsay. Well, they argue, are not these people breaking the Fourth Commandment and "doing evil that good may come?" Let us look at the matter intelligently. Is there any more harm driving to camp-meeting on Sunday than for some of our country Christian neighbors to drive in to Bellefonte to attend the services in the churches of their choice on this same sacred day? The answer is very easily given and very apparent to every liberal mind, No! If I break the Fourth Commandment in attending camp-meeting on Sunday the fault lies at my own door. I dare not throw the blame at this honored institution. This would verily be a matter of indiscretion and unfairness. The blame I must personally shoulder and for which I am personally responsible; then I should be placed with Sabbath-breakers on Baal's side. Maintiens le droit.

The Clearfield Encampment.

HEAD'QRS COM. ON ENCAMPMENT,
LARIMER POST, No. 179,
GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC.

CIRCULAR No. 1.

CLEARFIELD, PA., Aug. 20, '85.

Following is the programme of amusements, railroad rates, hotel rates, etc., for the Encampment to be held at Clearfield, Pa., Sept. 8th to 11th, 1885, inclusive, which all are cordially invited to attend:

Tuesday, Sept. 8.—Guard mount. Receiving and quartering visiting comrades during the day. Camp fire, 8 p. m.

Wednesday, Sept. 9th.—Guard mount. Artillery practice, 10 a. m. Target shooting, with "Old Springfield," for gold G. A. R. badge, 9 a. m. to 12 m. Grand parade, embracing G. A. R. Posts, Sons of Veterans, fire companies and other organizations, scenes from army life, etc., 2 p. m. Camp fire, 8 p. m.

Thursday, Sept. 10th.—Guard mount. Target shooting, 9 a. m. to 12 m. Execution of Rebel Spy, 10 a. m. Sham battle, (night attack), 8 p. m., to be followed by a fine display of fire works.

Friday, Sept. 11th.—Guard mount. Target shooting, 9 a. m. to 12 m. Foot race, 10 a. m. Long distance bicycle race, 2 p. m. Breaking camp.

An excursion rate of 2 cents per mile has been secured over the Pennsylvania railroad and its branches, for parties of not less than twenty-five, G. A. R. men and their friends. Orders for tickets must be procured from the Committee of Arrangements. Address C. L. Barrett, secretary, Clearfield, Pa. On September 9th and 10th tickets will be sold at all stations on the Tyrone and Clearfield Railroad at a rate of 2 cents per mile. This excursion is for ALL, and orders for tickets are not needed.

G. A. R. Posts and other organizations will be provided with quarters in camp, and should provide themselves with blankets and other things necessary to their comfort. A good boarding house will be kept on the ground, where meals can be had at the following rates: breakfast and supper, 25 cents; dinner, 30 cents.

Our hotels are all good and offer the following rates per day: Hotel Windsor, $2.00; Mansion House, $2.00; Leonard House, $1.50; Allegheny House, $1.50; St. Charles, $1.00. Board can be had at private houses at $1.00 and $1.50 per day.

Governor Pattison and Department Commander Austin Curtin have signified their intention of being present, and we have reason to believe that Gen. John A. Logan will also be present. All Posts and Camps in the State are invited, and many have engaged quarters.

Dancing pavilion open afternoon and evening.

BY ORDER OF COMMITTEE.

—The funeral services over the remains of the late Mr. Philip Kepheart, of Unionville, occurred at his home in that place at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning. Rev. Mr. Pardoe, a Presbyterian clergyman, conducted the services. The body was then brought to Bellefonte on the 9:32 a. m. train, and met at the depot by the funeral cortege and proceeded at once to Howard street cemetery. The services at the grave were conducted by Rev. Wm. Laurie, of the Presbyterian church. Deceased has been a very prominent citizen of this county, and at one time lived in this place. His brothers, Matlock Kepheart and Caleb Kepheart, still reside at Buffalo Run. His family included five sons, three of whom—Miles, William and Harry—still survive. A son named Mitchell died in the West and another, Mack, lost his life in a railroad accident. Between the years 1850-54 Mr. Kepheart lived in Lock Haven and later in Farrandsville. Many years ago he was a merchant in this place and about the opening of the war he was proprietor of the Pennsylvania Hotel, which stood on the site now occupied by the Brockerhoff House.

—We hear of the death on Monday, August 24, of Miss Kate Armstrong, which occurred at the residence of Jno. C. Shafer, Esq., in Evergreen Villa, Richmond, Pa. Miss Armstrong was the sister of Dr. Jno. Armstrong, Prof. Alfred Armstrong and Geo. S. Armstrong, all of whom were once residents of this place, but who have passed away to their eternal home. The deceased was about 80 years of age. She will be remembered by the older citizens of Bellefonte. She was a general favorite in Bellefonte society when she lived here.

—The beautiful white swallow that circled so gracefully around the island in Spring creek came to a sad ending. Some gunner shot it and it has finally found its way into the possession of Mr. Butts, on Linn Street, who is somewhat of an ornithologist. Mr. Butts believes the bird to be a freak of nature.

Wednesday in Court.

In the case of Commonwealth vs. Emanuel Downing and John F. Downing, jury returned a verdict of not guilty and costs divided between prosecutor and defendant.

In the case of the Commonwealth against John Erb, the defendant plead guilty.

The case of the Commonwealth against Sherman D. Seiler, charged with perjury, was next taken up for trial. The verdict not yet rendered.

The Grand Jury reported on the following bills:

Commonwealth against David Sholl and Elizabeth Sholl, larceny. True bill.

Same vs. William Wolf, Jr., assault and battery. Bill ignored. Prosecutor A. B. Snyder, to pay costs.

Same vs. A. B. Snyder, assault and battery. Bill ignored. Prosecutor, Wm. Wolf, to pay costs.

Same vs. Lewis Warner, assault. Bill ignored and prosecutor, James Witherite, to pay costs.

Same vs. John Daley. True bill.

Same vs. Joseph Ross, neglect of duties as overseer. Bill ignored. County to pay costs.

Same vs. Richard D. Hutchings, desertion. True bill.

Same vs. M. L. Chadman, F. and B. True bill.

Same vs. John R. Seiler, assault and battery. True bill.

Thursday in Court.

In the case of the Commonwealth against Sherman D. Seiler, for perjury, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and prosecutor, Isaac Underwood, to pay costs.

Same vs. Geo. A. Baney et al., assault, etc., W. E. Adams, prosecutor, settled.

Same vs. Wm. B. Eckley, obstructing public highway. True bill.

Same vs. Thomas Butler, same offense. Nolle pros.

Same vs. E. N. Marks, forgery. Nolle pros.

Same vs. Wm. Grove, neglected to open public road. Nolle pros.

Same vs. O. G. Walker, selling liquor without license. True bill.

Same vs. John Delaney, same offense. True bill.

Same vs. A. S. Goodrich, same offense. True bill.

In case of Commonwealth vs. Jas McCafferty for assault and battery and resisting police officer, the jury returned a verdict of guilty in manner and form as he stands indicted.

Court Concluded.

In the case of Commonwealth vs. William D. Eckley, obstructing public highway, Nolle pros entered.

The tramps were acquitted. They are the men who were arrested several months ago for attempting to break into private residences.

GRAND JURY REPORT.

We, the grand inquest of the county of Centre, after a careful and thorough examination of the public buildings, do report as follows, viz: The repairs lately made to the Court House were highly necessary and are greatly to the comfort and appearance of the court room and offices.

The thanks of the tax-payers are due to the board of Commissioners for the economy and good judgment exercised in making the repairs. In order to complete the excellent work began, would recommend the part of court room not already carpeted be covered with "linoleum" so as to more effectually deaden the noise. We do not see the necessity of any other repairs either to the Court House, the Jail or the Sheriff's residence. ROBT. MEEK, Foreman.

—We looked into the Bee Hive store rooms Friday morning and found that it has suddenly increased to almost double its former proportions. The large addition that has been built in the rear has become part of the main building by the removal of the partition and the entire store room will be filled with goods. Dry goods, notions and gents furnishing goods will constitute the stock in the main store room. Overhead, on the second floor, are three conveniently arranged rooms. The merchant tailoring business will probably occupy one of these rooms, another will be handsomely fitted up for a stock of ladies coats and other garments and the rear room will be devoted to the firm's overall operations.

—A car load of agricultural implements which arrived in this place on Friday was consigned to the Waite Bros., who have a large business establishment in Tyrone and a branch store at State College. The three brothers, J. S., Darius and Blair Waite, were in town Friday.

—Very few of the really great men of the Democratic party were at the State Convention on Wednesday and the Philadelphia Press says, "Ex-Gov. Curtin was the most conspicuous representative of the group of Pennsylvania Democrats of National reputation."

Letter List.

List of unclaimed letters remaining in the post-office at Bellefonte, Centre county, Pa., Aug. 24, 1885:

Persons asking for letters named in the above list will please say they are advertised.

JAS. H. DOBBINS, P. M.

—Frank X. Lehman, the jolly, good-natured proprietor of the Butts House, expects to go to Williamsport about the 1st of September. He will become proprietor of the Walla Halla house on Willow street, that city. It is about the size of the Butts House here and well adapted for his business. We are sorry to lose Mr. Lehman as a citizen. His business transactions with the people of Bellefonte have always been of the most agreeable description, and the Walla Halla House in Williamsport will secure in him an excellent proprietor. We believe he is very well known in Williamsport and will have a fair share of the public patronage.

—Judge A. O. Furst was not well last week and on Thursday afternoon he became so ill that it was necessary for him to adjourn court. He sent a telegram to Judge Krebs, of Clearfield, to come next morning to continue court for him. Judge Krebs, accordingly, arrived that morning and court was called about 10 o'clock. We hope that our very popular new Judge will recover sufficiently to continue his administration of even-handed justice.

—The Millheim Journal says that Christian Bame, an old and well-known citizen of Penn township, departed this life on Tuesday evening, Aug. 25, about 9 o'clock, having arrived at the ripe age of 81 years. Mr. Bame was born on the old homestead about a mile south of Millheim, where he spent all of his life. He leaves six children, three sons and three daughters, all having reached maturity and all married. The funeral occurs today.

—Mr. Fred Kurtz, of Centre Hall, was a passenger on the train from that place to Coburn on Friday, Aug. 21. The locomotive which drew his train became suddenly quite ill and was sent to Sunbury for treatment. While the sick engine was struggling with the train it moved at the rate of a mile in 30 minutes. As he is not anxious to cultivate patience, he hopes never again to meet with such an experience.

—The Synod of Pennsylvania, the important religious gathering which is to be held in the Presbyterian church here, will meet on the 3d Thursday, 15th day, of October, not September 17, as previously reported. Please remember this correction in the day and date.

—Mr. Jno. H. Horlacher, one of the good-looking clerks in Valentines Store Co., Lim., will be married on Tuesday, September 8, at 1 o'clock p. m., to Miss Annie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hopp, of Mooresburg, Pa. Accept our congratulations, John.

Died.

HOFFMAN.—On Thursday morning, Aug. 27, at about 11 o'clock a. m., in Bellefonte, Janet Hoffman, infant daughter of Henry and Maria Hoffman, aged 3 months and 1 day.

The funeral services over the remains of little Janet took place last Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of her parents on Lamb St., "Suffer the little ones to come unto Me and forbid them not." The sorrowing parents have our sincere sympathy.

Only white ribands to show
The anguish shut in by that door,
Only white rosebuds to blow.
In hands that can clasp them no more.

Only a small golden head
And sweet lips that move not again,
Only a baby lies dead,
Yet life is a deep, yearning pain.

Only a poor wounded heart
To lay at the Great Healer's feet,
And find all its longing and smart
Made patient and tenderly sweet.

Only a glimpse at the fold,
Where we know to the angels is given
The bliss to forever behold
"The face of their Father in Heaven."

Hoy—Kimmerle.

Dr. F. P. Hoy and wife, of Cassopolis, Mich., are visiting friends in this vicinity. Dr. Hoy has changed somewhat in appearance since he visited his brother, Dr. H. K. Hoy, a few years ago, and is now even handsomer than he used to be. His happy appearance is doubtless partly due to the fact that he was married on the 29th day of July to Miss Josie Kimmerle, of Cassopolis, Rev. Edward Brooks, of Grand Rapids officiating. The event occurred at the home of the bride's parents.

The happy couple spent a few days in a honeymoon tour and when they returned a fine reception was tendered them, their friends chartering a steamer, and spending the day on the placed waters of Diamond Lake.

Mrs. Hoy is a refined, highly educated lady and a member of one of the most prominent families in that section. We trust that the Doctor and his bride may enjoy their visit and that happiness may be theirs for all future time.

—Dr. John Bilger, of this place, has been engaged in the horse and live stock insurance business for sever alyears and any persons who want insurance of that kind should consult him.

—Miss Etta Mattern has returned from her visit to Baltimore and her musical voice is again vibrating over the telephone wire.

Henry Shænals, foreman Henry King Packing Co., St. Joseph, Mo., uses Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil with his men for sprains, cuts, bruises, chapped hands, etc. It is the best.

Spring Without Blossoms.

Late in Life to Look for Joy—Yet Never too Late to Mend.

Readers of Hawthorne's "House of Seven Gables" will recall the pathos with which poor Clifford Pyncheon, who had been unjustly imprisoned since his early manhood, said, after his release: "My life is gone, and where is my happiness? Oh! give me my happiness," but that could be done only in part, as gleams of warm sunshine occasionally fall across the gloom of a New England autumn day.

In a letter to Messrs. Hiscox & Co., Mr. L. H. Titus, of Pennington, N. J., says: "I have suffered untold misery from childhood from chronic disease of the bowels and diarrhœa, accompanied by great pain. I sought relief at the hands of physicians of every school and used every patent and domestic remedy under the sun. I have at last found in PARKER'S TONIC a complete specific, preventive and cure. As your invaluable medicine, which did for me what nothing else could do, is entitled to the credit of my getting back my happy days, I cheerfully and gratefully acknowledge the fact."

Mr. E. S. Wells, who needs no introduction to the people of Jersey City, adds: "The testimonial of Mr. Titus is genuine and voluntary; only he does not adequately portray the suffering he has endured for many years. He is my brother-in-law, and I know the case well. He is now perfectly free from his old troubles, and enjoys health and life, ascribing it all to PARKER'S TONIC."

—September.

—Sweet cider will soon be a popular beverage.

—The nights will be dark for a week or longer.

—The month of August is departing in a very agreeable manner.

—The trains on the Lemont railroad are well filled with passengers.

—Bellefonte girls complain that the young men are too busy even to kiss them.

—Mr. Richard Barlett was married on Friday evening to Miss Jennie Packer.

—The autumn tinted foliage corresponds with the hue of the ladies' bright-colored dresses.

—Mr. Oyster, usually called by the reporter the "Delicious Bivalve," will put in appearance soon.

—The young people are making good use of this pleasant weather in excursions to the country.

—The grand army of students is preparing for the fall and winter struggle with school books.

—The Catholics netted about $400 by the picnic recently given by that congregation on the Fair ground.

—A visitor always expected at this time of year is Jack Frost. We hope he will delay his coming this year.

—D. F. Seybert, an ex-member of the Pennsylvania Legislature from Luzerne county, has been arrested for burglary.

—There are a dozen or more phosphate grain drills at the depot. We believe they are the property of the Waite Brothers.

—A coal tar walk is to be made around the school house, inside the yard. This will be a vast improvement on the old boardwalk.

—The buildings of the Novelty Machine Works near the mill race and the creek, south of High street, received a coat of brown paint Tuesday.

—The Presbyterian Mite Society will give a supper next week in the chapel, Thursday and Friday evenings, we believe, being the time appointed.

—Six cages of Cole's circus were destroyed in a smash-up in a tunnel near Cornwall, W. Va., a few nights ago. No lives were lost, but some of the animals got away.

—The barn owned by William Schuman, near Ebensburg, was destroyed by fire Sunday night. It is believed that three tramps' who were in the barn perished in the flames.

—The custom adopted in Hollidaysburg of making the tramps work on the streets is resulting in great good. The streets are assuming an unusually neat and clean appearance.

—Will Speer feels particularly happy these watermelon days, but the watermelons never feel happy when they see him coming as they realize that their days on earth are numbered.

—A school board examiner lately asked the following question of a little girl: "What is the plural of man?" "Men." "Very well; and what is the plural of child?" "Twins," immediately replied the little girl.

—The festive grass hopper is particularly numerous along some of the by-paths in the rural districts and looks almost like a small army as dozens of them hop back and forth across the path in front of the pedestrian.

—It is said the hill tops of Cameron, Elk, Jefferson, Indiana, Cambria, Blair, Centre and Clearfield counties can be distinctly seen on clear days from a hill about one mile north of Curwensville, in the latter county, the picture presented to the eye being unexcelled for grandeur by any similar scene in the country.

—Mr. Robert Tate and family returned on Saturday from Europe, where they spent the past two months. They were 14 days in making the passage from this country to Europe and 9 days in returning. Mr Tate is an employe of the glass works in this place and we suppose after his royal recreation he is ready to return to work again.

—The Reformed church parsonage is greatly improved by the recent repairs to it. The rooms are large and very pleasant. Rev. Mr. DeLong's study is located in the southwestern corner of the house on the first floor and will enable that gentleman to prepare even more excellent sermons than before, and his discourses have always been good.

Cupid's Pranks.

Among the affairs of love and marriage which have agitated the bosom of this community none has been so thoroughly enjoyable as that which was consummated on Tuesday afternoon in the Episcopal church. The beautiful little edifice was comfortably filled with a brilliant audience which awaited the appearance of the wedding party with eager expectancy. A few minutes after 2 o'clock Mr Pooler struck up the lively strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, and the ushers—Messrs. Ed. Richard, J C. Meyer and Chas. Richard and Wilbur Harris—led the way up the centre aisle. Then came the groom's best man, Mr. Isaac Smith, of Ridgeway, accompanied by Miss Mary Bradley, the bride's sister. Miss Sallie Bradley, the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, Mr. Benj. Bradley, came last. Rev. Mr. Bonnell, of Lock Haven, and Mr. George Bible, the smiling groom, met them at the altar. They made a pretty picture as they grouped around the clergyman. The bride's costume was light drab trimmed with velvet, and bonnet and gloves to match. The bridegroom looked very handsome in the conventional black. The bridesmaid's dress was dark slate in color with bonnet to match and ecrue kid gloves. Mr. Smith was attired in black with gloves similar to those worn by Miss Mary Bradley. The ceremony was the usual one in the Episcopal church. During the entire ceremony the organist played in a low tone and with a delicate touch which was very pleasing, and when he again struck up the march the bridal party retired from the church.

About forty invited guests attended the reception at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Bible stood in the parlor before a mantel which was beautifully and tastefully decorated with flowers, with ferns and plants beneath. After congratulating them the company spent the time in conversation, with an occasional rendition of a piece of instrumental or vocal music from some one of the company. The collation was all that taste and care could provide. Cold meats, fruits, cakes, and ices were served in endless quantity. The presents were admired and are too numerous for enumeration. A novel and certainly useful one was from the bride's parents. It was an Alderney cow. As it was deemed advisable not to place the gift among the silver and glass ware she was fastened outside the house where a view could be obtained of her through the window. A handsome ebony clock of unique design was the gift of Mr. Smith. The four ushers presented a costly and richly chased silver water pitcher, a similar gift being received from the Episcopal church choir of which the bride was a member. Amber and colored glass ware articles were quite numerous.

Among the strangers present were Mrs. Habgood, of Renovo; Miss Lizzie Bible, of Houserville; Miss Annie Bible, of Tyrone; Miss Kane, of Tyrone, and Miss Gertie Solt, of Zion.

The truly happy couple departed at 5:20 o'clock to Pittsburg, thence they will go to Erie, then to Niagara Falls and New York City.

The bride is a lovely and graceful young lady. She is accomplished, and has numerous excellent qualities of mind and heart. She will be a most excellent wife. The groom is a young gentleman of high moral and intellectual qualities. He is business manager of the Centre Democrat. They have our hearty congratulations and best wishes.

—Mr. E. M. Speer, who for several years past has filled the position of manager of the Western Union Telegraph business in this place, last Tuesday formally transferred his authority to his successor, Mr. Edmund B. Rankin. From now until about the 9th instant, when he will start on his western trip, he will be at leisure. While our experience with telegraph operators has not been extensive, we can say that it has never been our pleasure to meet any one in any capacity who filled his position with such devotion, in such an obliging, courteous manner as Mr. Speer. During the time he has been here we have had business with him almost daily and have found him invariably the same—reliable and constant in attending to every business detail and at the same time exerting himself to perform those acts of courtesy which make the true gentleman as well as the business man. We cannot have the least doubt that he will be very successful in his future career, as the Great West is opening its arms to just such young gentlemen whose efforts will render it in time the grandest and best part of this united Republic.

—Dr. E. S. Dorworth was able to appear on the street on Tuesday, the first time since his illness.

Sunday Sermons.

The topic of Rev. Chas. T. Steck's sermon on Sunday morning was "Christian Faith, its Nature and Office." His text was "For unto us was the Gospel preached as well as unto them; but the word preached did not profit them, not being mixed with faith in them that heard it"—Hebrews 4:2. The sermon was said to be one of Rev. Mr. Steck's best efforts. In the evening he preached from St. Matthew 1:24 "Thou shalt call His name Jesus; for He shall save His people from their sins." This message was given by an angel of God. In prophesy such titles as "Wonderful," "Counsellor," "Prince of Peace," etc., had been bestowed upon Him. He explained the appropriateness of these titles. He said that Jesus is the Greek form of Joshua and spoke of the similarity in the mission of the two. Salvation is not only from the penal consequences of sin, but from sin itself. The spiritual kingdom of holiness begins here and now. His manner of presenting these truths commanded attention.

In the Methodist church Rev. M. K. Foster, in the morning, preached from the text, "Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such a one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted"—Gal. 6:1. He said it is to be regretted that any should transgress, but especially so for Christians. The text teaches unmistakably that those who err should be followed with sympathy and tears until they are brought back. Those who are thus followed will sooner respond if approached in a spirit of meekness. His sermon in the evening was from St. John 1st chapter, 46th verse. "Philip saith unto him, come and see."

Thirty-eight young men were present at the meeting in the hall of the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mr. James Hughes conducted the exercises and the time was occupied in a very spirited manner, proving entirely too brief.

Prof. Lewis Robb preached an excellent sermon in the Reformed church on Sunday morning. His text was from 1st Corinthians, latter part of 24th verse, "So run that ye may obtain."

In the Presbyterian church Rev. Wm. Laurie delivered a sermon in the morning from the latter part of the 15th verse of 17th Psalm—"I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness." His evening discourse was from II Peter 1:5—"And beside this, giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue, knowledge," etc.

Rev. B. J. Hummel preached his farewell sermon in the U. B. church in the evening. He will be transferred to another charge by the conference that meets this month.

Arranging for the Veterans' Reunion.

The committee appointed to select grounds for the meeting of the Centre County Veteran Club picnic on Sept. 12th, 1885, have secured the Fair grounds near Bellefonte.

D. F. Fortney, Esq., of Bellefonte, has accepted the invitation and will deliver the address of welcome.

Several prominent speakers have been invited and are expected to be present, among whom are the Hon. A. G. Curtin, Hon. Joseph Parker, of Clearfield, Asst. Adj't Gen. Thos. J. Stewart, of the G. A. R., Hon. S. R. Peale, of Lock Haven, and others. Major Gen. W. S. Hancock has also been invited and it is believed will be present on the occasion. In order to secure the success of the reunion the following efficient members of the club have been appointed committees, viz:

Committee on arranging grounds—John Noll, Amos Garbrick, Samuel Schaffer, Joseph Fox, James Reed, A. M. McMutrie.

Committee on provisions—Amos Mullen, S. H. Williams, Chas. Smith, Esq., R. C. Irvin, David Bartley, N. A. Lucas, John Weaver, A. V. Miller.

Committee on finance—John Anderson, John L. Kurtz, John G. Love, D. F. Fortney.

Committee on reception—D. S. Keller, W. H. Blair, James H. Rankin, J. I. Curtin, H. A. Williams.

The several Grand Army Posts, bands of the county and the citizens generally have been cordially invited to be present and participate in the pleasures of the day.

It is expected that the citizens of town will render any assistance necessary to make the re-union a success, and that any calls made upon them by any of the committees will be promptly responded to. During this summer the hospitality of our town has not been taxed by any gathering of this sort and the calls made upon them for this occasion will not be large.

In view of the assemblage of veterans who will probably spend much of their time in the town, it will be extremely appropriate for our citizens to decorate their dwellings and illuminations at night will not be out of place. Arches of evergreen should be placed across the street at conspicuous points. Other suitable ways of rendering the occasion a notable event will suggest themselves within the next twelve days.

The Grangers' State Fair.

The Grangers' State picnic in Williams' Grove, near Mechanicsburg, Cumberland county, commenced on Monday, and will last a week. A miniature village is being erected on the grounds for the accommodation of the great crowd expected to be present. There will be on exhibition products of the varied industries of the State. There will be lectures by prominent members and essays without number. Gov. Pattison will be on the grounds on Thursday, Sept. 3d, and will address the gathering. On editors' day, Friday, there will be a grand trial of machinery, to be followed by addresses by Thomas V. Cooper, W. U. Hensel and A. K. McClure. At 7 p. m. a literary and musical entertainment will be given in the grand pavilion. Hon. S. J. Randall, ex-Senator W. A. Wallace, Hon. E. A. Burke, Director General of the New Orleans Exposition, and other prominent people will be present and deliver addresses. On Saturday there will be a big sale of thoroughbred stock, carriages, farm implements and other exhibits.

Thoughts on Education.

In this age of progress and improvement it is not surprising to find the paths that lead the youth of today through the labyrinthine fields of science and knowledge bow to beauty enriched with all manner of implements to delve into the mind of youth.

This country is teeming with knowledge. Institutions of knowledge show their broad fronts like sentinels of civilization everywhere. For by the liberality of individual, or State, the soil of the United States is impregnated with mental culture.

Institutions, colleges and universities lift their lofty heads as if to outrival the hills and mountains which surround many of them, and which wall them from the world and the strife and tumult of Wall street. For, as the writer seeks the quiet and stillness of the undisturbed night to emit from his pen flash after flash of thought to electrify the world, so does the true student seek the mountain and valley to nourish and strengthen the vital forces of mind. And what quieter valley can be found than the Nittany? And what more reliable instigator to learning can be found than the Pennsylvania State College? That grand institution which has contended against the venemous tongues of maliciously disposed individuals of warped calibre, now faces the world in all its prosperity, with a smile two hundred and forty feet long by eighty feet broad. And this smile broadens over three hundred acres, fifty of which exhibit a campus that attracts and holds the attention of the most unobserving. Its exquisite beauty and perfect order are significant of the beauty and order produced in the mind of the student by the mind-rollers and cultivators in constant motion within the building. —Small brothers and sisters or cousins now appear as the bride's attendants at high-class weddings. One youthful page in white velvet and silk, with white plumed hat, at a recent wedding, was almost as marked a part of the spectacle as the bride herself. Dainty babies in frocks of India silk with lace, mopcaps of lace and posies tied with satin ribbons, or pretty girls of 9 to 11, with hair in ruffled love locks, muslin dresses and flower baskets slung by a ribbon across the shoulder making a charming part of the bridal group.

—The Huntingdon correspondence of the Altoona Times, yesterday morning, contained the following interesting item: "Rev. Mrs. M. K. Foster, of Bellefonte, is a lady of letters. She has written several interesting books for schools, one of which is extensively used in Philadelphia. Mrs. Foster has numerous friends in this county."

—Mr. Samuel P. Gray, the venerable father of Durbin Gray, Esq., visited his son in this place on Tuesday. He lives at Buffalo Run and as he is now 81 years of age he does not visit Bellefonte as frequently as formerly. Everybody hereabouts is pleased to see him when he favors them with a visit.

—The Woman's Home and Foreign Missonary Society of the Evangelical Lutheran church was in session on Tuesday in Altoona. The next meeting will be in Myersdale, Somerset county.

—Dr. Lytle, of Philipsburg, was in Bellefonte Tuesday.
